Menlo Park Centennial Event in August Called Off

Lack of Funds and Public Interest Cited by Association in Announcement

The much-talked-of Menlo Park centennial celebration, scheduled for mid-August, has been called off because of lack of public interest and lack of funds.

This announcement was made last night by Admiral C. Julian Wheeler, president of the Menlo Park Centennial Association, at a meeting of representatives of the organizations that had planned to participate in events marking the 100th birthday of the community.

The decision was made, Admiral Wheeler explained, at a joint meeting of the directors of the centennial association and of the directors of the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce Tuesday morning.

THE LESSER EVIL

Choosing what Wheeler called the lesser of two evils, the group unanimously decided that, in view of apparent lack of enthusiasm and the impossibility of raising minimum financial backing with which to do a creditable job, it was better to cancel the entire plan now rather than to cause further loss of prestige for the city by allowing the celebration to "fizzle out."

The only funds the centennial association had received, Wheeler said, were $500 from the city and $25 from the Menlo Park Business and Professional Women's Club. These grants would be returned, he said.

It had been agreed by directors of the association that a minimum of $1000 would have been required in order to make any showing whatsoever, with roughly $500 needed to stage a good downtown parade and another $500 for a dance.

While the theme of the celebration had been from the start intended as recreational rather than in the carnival spirit, a public dance had been included in planning as an indispensable part of the program.

The Menlo Park Lions Club had agreed to organize a parade, but upon investigation found that area volunteer units to compose the marchers would be almost totally unavailable during the summer months.

It was this last revelation, Wheeler said, that touched off final action to cancel the entire program, although realization that sufficient public interest was lacking had been growing upon members of the association for several weeks, he said.

Wheeler yesterday expressed his appreciation of the hard work and achievement of all those who had helped him to build the centennial program as far as it got.

AUCTION PLANNED

Meanwhile, it still was uncertain as the Recorder went to press last night whether a few of the events scheduled for the centennial observance would go ahead anyway.

Among such plans which may survive collapse of the overall celebration is a program designed by the merchants committee of the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce. With the slogan of "It's Menlo, Ten for One," the merchants group planned to give all shoppers at participating stores during a three-week period in advance of the celebration, one "dollar" in scrip for every 10 cents worth of merchandise purchased.

On the final night of the event an auction would be held, at which the public could bid for and purchase—with the scrip—items donated by the merchants.

Army 'Stupid,' Say City Councilmen

The Menlo Park city council Tuesday night labelled as "stupid" the position of the 6th Army in regard to establishment of an armory in this city and framed a strongly worded resolution protesting the apparent intent of the Army department to erect such a structure on Ravenswood avenue.

Copies of the resolution were to be sent to Army Secretary Robert Stevens, to the Board of Supervisors of San Mateo county, and to the Town of Atherton.

The action was the outcome of a report from City Manager C. L. Longson on progress of discussions with army officials. The city had offered to trade a two-and-a-half-acre parcel of city property between the civic center and Alma street as an armory site in exchange for the parcel selected by the Army in the Stanford Village area.

IMPROPER USE

The city had pointed out that an armory on Ravenswood would be out of keeping with the city's zoning and would be putting to an improper use some of the city's most valuable land, designed for future development as administrative offices, such as the Linfield Oaks offices of Sunset magazine, Allstate Insurance, American Insurance, Magna Engineering and Prudential Insurance.

Furthermore, the city pointed out that the site offered in exchange was adjacent to the one-and-a-third-acre plot already set aside by the city for construction of a National Guard armory and that the two armories would be compatible and mutually beneficial.

While discussions dragged on, Longson said, he was alarmed some few weeks ago to observe Army surveyors placing permanent markers at the corners of the Ravenswood site. This, he declared, is never done unless use of the property is definitely determined.

ARMY FEARS NOISE

In view of this action, Longson had written directly to Army Secretary Stevens to restate the city's case and also had enlisted the aid of Congressman J. Arthur Younger in Washington.

However, Longson said, on Tuesday morning of his week a group of "half a dozen" officers from the 6th Army had visited his office "to explain why they were rejecting" the city's proposed trade of land parcels.

The reasons, Longson said, were that the noise from the Southern Pacific railroad tracks and from the stone crusher of Peninsula Building Materials company on the other side of the railroad would constitute a disturbance harmful to use of the armory, and that, furthermore the Army considers the city's site as "secondary" property.

At this point Mayor Michael L.

'Modified' Plan to Provide 263 Spaces On Southerly Side of Shopping Area

The time for action in the long-discussed proposal to provide public parking plazas on the southerly side of Santa Cruz avenue in Menlo Park's business district was signaled Tuesday night when the city council voted to begin formation of an assessment district.

After fully discussing three different proposals and the costs of each, the council determined to go ahead with a "modified blue plan," which would create parking covering the four interior lots in each of four blocks between Santa Cruz and Menlo avenues from University drive to Crane street and from Chestnut street to Doyle.

This project would create about 263 offstreet parking spaces, it was estimated by M. J. van Loben Sels, representing City Engineer Edwin H. Smith. Assessments on the "prime" properties involved would run about $180 per front foot, he said, or roughly $9000 per 50-foot lot fronting on Santa Cruz and backing up to the parking area.

Assessments on properties not adjacent to the plazas and on the northerly side of Santa Cruz would be considerably lower.

BLOCK ELIMINATED

Entirely eliminated from the district at this time would be the block bounded by Santa Cruz, Chestnut, Menlo and Crane, as well as the central block on the northerly side of Santa Cruz.

Elimination of this piece from the district, it was explained, would not affect cost to the rest of the area and would enable the properties left out to proceed to form a district for their own parking when further development provides both greater need and greater ability to do so.

Comparing cost of the project with another "compromise" proposal — described by Mayor Michael L. Belangie as the least the council woul accept—Van Loben Sels estimated the smaller project would provide 176 parking spaces, with a prime assessment figure of $120 per front foot.

Cost per parking space obtained, however, would be $880 under the "minimum" proposal, and only $840 under the plan adopted by the council.

Although notably calm in contrast to previous public discussions of parking proposals, Tuesday night's meeting was not without evidences of disagreement.

FORD HOLDS OUT

Councilman George Ford held out to the last in favor of the minimum proposal, despite firm statements in opposition from Councilman William R. Lawson and Mayor Belangie.

In the final vote, however, Ford joined with the majority, "because I am in favor of parking, and if the other councilmen don't see it as I do, I will go along with them to get parking."

After Van Loben Sels had explained each of three proposals, Belangie opened the discussion by terming the "biggest possible" parking plan "the only hope for survival" of the downtown business district.

NO FRIENDS

After long months of talk, Belangie said, he had decided "I'm not going to have any friends either way I vote." Therefore, he said, he would go ahead on his conscience to vote for the modified blue plan or the whole blue plan. The latter would have included in the district the central block eliminated under modified proposal.

Lawson then followed with strong approval for Belangie's stand, and termed the modified plan his choice as "the most for the money."

Ford declared the minimum proposal seemed to him the soundest at this time.

Councilman Arthur Cobbledick declared his first choice would be the blue or modified proposal, but warned that if the council chose a project too big to put through, resulting delay in providing a less ambitious parking program would be dangerous.

Gene Hammond, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, arose to clarify further the position of the chamber directors, who had gone on record in a letter favoring the blue plan and declaring the minimum proposal entirely inadequate and dangerous to hopes for expanding parking facilities in the future.

'NOT EXPENSIVE'

Santos Duca, owner of commercial property at the corner of Santa Cruz and Chestnut, declared the modified proposal was satisfactory to him and "not a bit expensive

Doubt Settles On Menlo Ave. Rezoning Plan

A cloud of doubt was draped around plans to erect a supermarket on Menlo avenue between Curtis and Chestnut streets Tuesday night.

Coming before the council in the form of a public hearing on the request to rezone half of the parcels in the block to commercial and half to parking from their present status of "transitional apartment" use, the matter was continued when representatives of interested parties balked at conditions placed on the rezoning.

The rezoning was recommended to the council by the planning commission subject to provision of public parking in a ratio of one square foot for every square foot of store area if parking areas in the block become a reality as envisioned in the assessment district proceedings now being drawn up. In the event that such parking is not provided, however, the market would have to provide its own parking area on the ratio of two to one.

UNACCEPTABLE

Perry N. Moerdyke Jr., attorney for the proposed tenant of the market, declared that such a stipulation would be unacceptable. It would mean, he pointed out, either waiting until the parking district was assured or going ahead with construction in the face of having possibly to acquire additional parking area if the district should fail.

Councilmen held firm to the principle that these conditions had been involved with the rezoning request since the beginning and are required by the city's zoning ordinance.

The applicants thereupon agreed to have the hearing continued until July 27 to give them time to decide whether the investors would agree to such a delay.

Commented Councilman William R. Lawson, "I hope the parking district goes through and that you are still around when it does."

Fire District Calls for Bids on Building Of Proposed New Headquarters Station

Bids on Menlo Park Fire District's proposed headquarters station, at Santa Monica avenue and Middlefield road, are to be opened at a special meeting of the district's commissioners on Aug. 26. But whether construction will start immediately after the bid opening remains to be seen.

District commissioners Monday night told Architect Leslie I. Nichols to go ahead with plans for the bid opening; however, they pointed out that their proposed $420,100 budget for the coming year has yet to be approved by the county board of supervisors.

Several months ago when the trustees were first studying plans for the proposed edifice with classrooms and drill tower facilities, they arrived at a cost estimate of $101,000.

They did not repeat this estimated figure Monday, however, since they will have to decide, on the basis of bids and on the basis of whether or not the county approves their proposed budget, whether or not the entire station can be built at this time.

Architect Nichols also pointed out, Monday night, that building costs are continually shifting and that this too would cause some revision in the original estimate.

Meanwhile, in other actions, the fire commissions:

1. At the request of Menlo Park District Board of Insurance Agents representative David Ingram, broadened liability coverage to apply to "occurences" as well as "accidents."

2. Discussed the possibility of a combined central communications systems, serving Menlo Park and Atherton police as well as the fire district, and heard a report from Fire District Chief Thomas F. Cuff on discussion of that project at a recent meeting of officials of the political subdivisions concerned.

3. Awarded a contract for supplying gasoline to the district to the Associated Oil company, which submitted a low figure of 22.2 cents per gallon.

BUILDING DEDICATION

Official dedication of the new craft-nature lodge at San Mateo county Boy Scout council's Camp Pomponio will be held Sunday evening, it was announced this week.

Barker Heads Fire Commission

C. Vernon Barker, two-year member of the Menlo Park Fire District commission, was Monday night elected president of the three-man governing board. He succeeds Malcolm C. Paterson, senior member of the commission.

Barker resides at 5 Winchester drive ,Atherton. Paterson resides at 2193 Sharon road, in the unincorporated area west of Menlo Park.

Junior member of the board is Wallace E. Ott of Menlo Park, elected to the board only last April.

The Menlo Park Fire District board has come to be composed of one member each from Menlo Park, Atherton, and the unincorporated parts of the fire district. The post of board president is generally rotated eevry year, as the district reorganizes.

Mrs. Greenleaf, Durfee Renamed to City Bodies

Two reappointments to city boards were approved by the city council Tuesday night. Renamed as a member of the city Board of Library Trustees was Mrs. Lee M. Greenleaf, whose term expired June 30.

Reappointed to the city traffic safety commission was R. A. Durfee. His previous term had expired on March 24.

Stumped by New Sign Law

Planners Approve New Safeway Building, But They Still Balk at Big Sign Tower

Menlo Park city planners Monday evening gave their approval to plans for Safeway stores' proposed 100-by-200 foot market building at Middle avenue and El Camino Real, but whether or not the building will be equipped with a 50-foot tower on which is spelled out the name of the store remained in doubt.

Some planners thought the sign was too big and pointed out that if the tower and signs as shown in Safeway's standard designs are allowed, they will greatly exceed the area allowed in the city's new sign ordinance; other planners said they thought the tower, and sign worked to make a more harmonious building.

Two correspondents and one member of the audience argued that the signs should be kept to a smaller size than those shown on the market company's standard drawings.

The correspondents included Mrs. Rapp Brush, 248 Encinal avenue and Captain J. F. Quilter, naval officer, currently stationed in Philadelphia but a resident of Menlo Park.

From the audience Al Truitt, operator of Truitt signs here, argued that although he had found hardships when he first tried to apply the sign ordinance, he has since convinced his patrons that it "works fine."

He argued that "Safeway should abide by the same rules as everybody else."

REBUTTAL

N. Perry Moerdyke, Palo Alto attorney representing Safeway, pointed out in reply that Safeway's frontage will cover only about one-third of the 300-foot El Camino Real side of the building's site, the rest will be in parking.

He argued that the city's sign ordinance is designed, in general, to regulate signs in areas where stores stand "shoulder to shoulder;" he added also that the design of the building as a whole is enhanced by the signs as shown, and argued that the commission will have to make exceptions, anyhow, in the case of such enterprises as theaters.

Market Analysis Firm to Break Ground on Friday

At 1:45 p. m. tomorrow, ground will be broken for A. C. Nielsen company's $57,000 western headquarters building, to be constructed just west of Sunset magazine's headquarters facing Willow road.

The newest addition to Menlo Park's professional-administrative zone, housing the nationally-known marketing analysis concern, will be of ranch-style construction, a single story in height.

It will have a shake shingle roof and will be in the form of a "U" around an enclosed patio. It will have a total of 5500 square feet of floor space, according to plans submitted to the Menlo Park building inspector's office.

The structure, to be of frame construction, will be faced with wood and trimmed with stucco and brick veneer. Whelan construction company has been named as contractor for the edifice.

Actually, with site development and acquisition costs added to those of the building, the development as a whole will represent an investment well in excess of $100,000.

City Acquires New Vehicles

The city of Menlo Park during recent weeks has become the owner of three new vehicles, trading off one police car and one "business" auto and acquiring, in return, a new police car, a new pick-up truck and a new business auto.

The new units are acquired at this time at a saving to the taxpayers, City Manager C. L. Longson explains, and constitute normal replacement of equipment and expansion of the city's mechanical plant.

Traded off were one 1949 sedan, used by the building inspector's office for the past several years and one police car of 1952 vintage, with 80,000 miles on the speedometer.

Plea for Infant Supplies Issued

Sequoia chapter, American Red Cross this week issued a plea in behalf of a 22-year-old wife of a soldier and resident of the district, asking that some "infant furniture" be volunteered.

The young woman, whose husband is out of the area but who has not yet left for overseas, is the mother of an 11-month-old child and is expecting another baby in August, say Red Cross officials. She is able to subsist on army allotments, but needs help for such items as a stroller, play pen, crib and training seat.

Anyone having such items should contact the Red Cross' home service unit at EM 6-3851, Mrs. Margaret Bermejo, executive secretary for Sequoia chapter, said this week.

St. Raymond's Parish Begins Work On New School, Rectory at Arbor Road

Turning the first spadeful of earth Monday afternoon, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edwin J. Kennedy, pastor of St. Raymond's parish here, signalled the start of construction of an eight-room parish school and a priests' house which will adjoin it on property to be developed at Santa Cruz avenue and Arbor road.

The two structures named are the first of five, construction of which is to be undertaken; the first two, and site work which will accompany them, will cost an estimated $300,000.

Still to be started are a new church edifice, parish hall and nuns' home on the same property, a portion of the former Felix McGinnis estate.

Target date for opening of the school, to which priority has been given, has been set at Oct. 1. Bogdanich construction company of Santa Clara has been named the contractor.

EIGHT CLASSROOMS

The new school edifice will be of one-story design and, according to Architect Henry V. Chescoe of San Francisco, will include, besides eight classroms, a library, Sister Superior's office, health room, book room, nuns' room and auxiliary spaces. It will cover a total area of 12,165 square feet.

It will be of wood frame construction with concrete slab and foundation walls.

The rectory will be of somewhat similar construction to the school, but will have wood floors. It will include an office wing, service wing, garage and patio in addition to quarters for the pastor and his assistants.

The entire site development plan, Monsignor Kennedy points out, will include the paving of offstreet parking space which will eventually attach to the church. Thus, though construction cost of the buildings will be $245,000, total cost of projects undertaken at this time will exceed $300,000.

Meanwhile, as St. Raymond's parish gets its building program underway, it has been announced that more than $100,000 in pledges and advance gifts have already been received. William D. Coldiron of Menlo Park, chairman of the building fund drive, said that, about Aug. 30, about 313 male parishioners will open a drive to collect the remainder of the funds necessary for the current project.

Sisters of the Order of the Immaculate Heart, with headquarters in Hollywood will staff the new school.

RAPID GROWTH

Monsignor Kennedy recalled that the parish's first Mass was said on Palm Sunday of 1952. There were 700 Catholic families in the parish at the time; today, there are estimated to be more than 1100.

St. Raymond's parish includes the area bounded by El Camino Real, San Francisquito creek, Atherton avenue and a line separating the inhabited section west of Menlo Park and Woodside.

Monsignor Kennedy pointed out that establishment of the new parochial school will in no way effect the continued operation of St. Joseph's school, operated in Atherton since 1906 by the Religious of the Sacred Heart.

The St. Raymond's site development plans have been approved by the city planning commission.

Voters Reminded To Register

Mrs. Margaret A. Becker, city clerk, taking note of the fact that there are still hundreds of Menlo Park residents who are not yet registered to vote in the forthcoming November elections, pointed out that she is still signing people up.

Persons wishing to register to vote may contact Mrs. Becker at the city hall during regular business hours. Or if it's impossible to do that, they may contact Mrs. Becker at DA 3-7946 for registration at her home, 1235 Laurel street, by appointment.

Gas Tax Agreement Approved

Santa Cruz Widening Scheduled by City

The city council Tuesday night indicated it soon will issue a call for bids on widening of Santa Cruz avenue from Johnson street to San Mateo drive and for repaving and installation of curbs and gutters on Middle avenue for its full length from El Camino Real to Olive street.

The announcement came in execution of an agreement with the State Division of Highways on allocation of state gas tax funds within the city during the fiscal year 1954-55.

The call for bids on the two projects, and also for completion of a storm drainage link still lacking along Santa Cruz avenue, probaly will be issued at the council's next regular meeting, July 27. City Manager C. L. Longson urged the speedy action in order to take advantage of the summer weather.

TOTAL COSTS SHOWN

The fund allocation agreement shows the Santa Cruz avenue project is estimated to cost $33,500, and the Middle avenue work $39,300.

The former would be financed by $16,750 from gas tax funds, and a like amount from the city's share of state "Chapter 20" funds, set aside by the state in the '40's for major city improvements.

The Middle avenue project would be financed by $22,223.56 from gas tax monies, $5680 from county funds, $3200 from private owners (Safeway and the Morey tract at the corner of El Camino Real and Middle), and $9196.44 from the Chapter 20 account.

MAINTENANCE FUNDS

In addition to these two major street projects, the agreement sets up an amount of $25,700 for maintenance of existing city pavements during the year.

The Santa Cruz avenue project proposes the pavement to be the same in width as that now in front of the Presbyterian church between University drive and Johnson. It is to be bordered with shallow "dish-type" gutters.

Middle avenue is to be taken to the full width of the 66-foot right-of-way.

Headaches Ahead

PLANNERS DENY BID FOR NEW APARTMENT ZONE

One of the first moves to widen Menlo Park's apartment house zones since adoption of the city's master plan was snagged Monday by the city planning commission, but not before the planners indicated they knew they are in for more headaches — or growing pains—in the months ahead.

The move to rezone property came from Mrs. Elizabeth Schivo and Mrs. Katherine MacLean, owners of two of four parcels facing the north side of Oak Grove avenue just east of Crane street.

They argued that the land, faced across the street with commercial development, should be rezoned for multiple-family use.

Owners of two other lots in the same area, as members of the audience and as signers of a petition, objected.

After long discussion, the planners agreed that they should not rezone the Schivo and MacLean properties without doing something about the other two lots involved along the block, between Crane street and an apartment house adjacent to Menlo Park Fire District station 6 at Hoover street.

Since some of those present maintained they desired to have the present zoning remain, they said, reclassification as asked would result in "spot zoning." They recommended that the city council deny the application.

They agreed, however, to study the matter at their next informal meeting, in an effort to seek a solution to the problem for all five lots involved, which would be agreeable to all.

OTHER ACTION

In other actions, the commission:

Drive or Lane?

Council Tosses Cul-de-Sac Name Problem To PC as Subdivider Still Likes 'Drive'

Sent back again to the planning commission this week by the city council was the question of whether the cul-de-sac street in Atkinson Manor, opening off Santa Cruz avenue opposite Hillview school, should be called Atkinson lane, Atkinson drive, Atkinson court or Atkinson place.

Dr. Robert Atkinson, owner of the property and developer of the subdivision, has requested that the term "drive" be allowed. The formula for street naming recently adopted by the planning commission calls for it to be a "court" or a "place." The map of the subdivision, however, submitted for final approval, designates the street at "Atkinson lane."

Dr. Atkinson has declared that he will settle for "lane" since the term was used in connection with the subdivision prior to adoption of the new formula.

Councilman William R. Lawson warned that, if the council accepted the map showing "lane" in violation of the commission's formula, councilmen might as well resign themselves to the task of judging every street naming matter that arises in the future.

Unwilling to accept this job, councilmen sent the matter back for planning commission action and held up acceptance of improvements already completed until the name question is settled.

2. Heard that three residents of Gilbert street had withdrawn an application to rezone their property, because they (the owners) cannot get together with Ravenswood School District on the retention of approaches to the Willow school grounds;

3. Continued for further study a request by Mrs. Ann Sobrato, 95 Howard way, Atherton, in which she asked that a clinic site at 1010 Noel drive be rezoned "C-1-A" (professional-administrative).

Mrs. Sobrato explained that the clinic was a "legal use" for the site when erected about five years ago; since then, a change in the zoning ordinance has made it a "nonconforming use" in the apartment-house zone.

Mrs. Sobrato contended that to protect her property and to allow her to replace building in case of, say, fire, she should be allowed to rezone the property.

architects, agreed. West, however, asked that he be noted as "not voting" on the request for a variance which Safeway submitted because he said, he was prejudiced.

Under the sign ordinance, Safeway would be allowed a total of 300 square feet of signs; plans submitted showed a total of more than 700 square feet of labels—large signs on either side of the top of the proposed tower and smaller ones on a "cantilever" arcade leading to the building's main entrance.

Planners, however, approved the plan for the building as a whole, so that construction may go ahead at the earliest possible date.

Told that Safeway will attempt to conform if possible, they asked if the firm could "scale down" its signs but still keep them harmonious with the rest of the market building.

to the Santa Cruz avenue frontage."

Ron Ferguson, owner of commercial property in the westerly section of the district, echoed Cobbledick's fears that, if too ambitious a plan were undertaken and failed, the area would be worse off than now.

Hardware merchant Dale Frane declared that a cost of $120 per front foot was as nothing compared to what the business district would suffer if the greatest possible amount of parking were not provided.

Frederick Walker, manager of the First National Bank office here, declared the bank believes the downtown business district is now being throttled for lack of sufficient parking and would like to see the entire blue plan put into effect.

APPLAUDS FORD

D. P. McKelvey, manager of the Plaza Shops building on the northerly side of the avenue, applauded Ford's stand and compared the larger plans to a 10-room house built by a person who needs and can afford only a four-room dwelling.

Belangie countered by saying, "If a four-room house were big enough, we would not be in this discussion."

Mark Loughlin, owner of several commercial parcels on Santa Cruz, in a letter read into the record, urged "the best for the least" and that incidental costs should be held to a minimum, but declared himself in favor of more parking. (See Letter to Editor on Page 4).

At the conclusion of discussion, Belangie called for a motion, offering the first opportunity to Ford. Ford moved that the council proceed on the basis of the minimum project, but failed to secure a second to his motion.

Lawson then moved to go ahead with the modified proposal; the motion was seconded by Cebbledick.

First hearings under the project can be expected in about 60 days, according to City Attorney James T. O'Keefe Jr.

Long Skid Leads Car to Crash

An auto driven by 17-year-old William B. Bailey of Palm Springs was towed from the scene, following a Friday afternoon collision on Middlefield road near St. Patrick's seminary, involving a pick-up truck, police report.

According to police, Bailey's auto struck the rear of a pickup truck operated by Ronald Norton Williams, 22, of San Mateo. The latter was stopped for traffic ahead. Both vehicles were southbound.

Police said Bailey's auto, which collided with the rear of the truck left approximately 36 feet of skid marks before the point of impact.

Dr. Flippen Plans To Open Office

Dr. James H. Flippen, Menlo Park resident who for the past 18 months has been serving on an army transport on duty in the far east, this week announced plans to open offices in Menlo Park.

Dr. Flippen will locate his offices at 681 Oak Grove avenue. He was discharged from the service last week.

A graduate of Stanford and Harvard medical schools, Dr. Flippen is instructor of pediatrics at Stanford and a member of the American Board of Pediatrics.

He resides at 385 Cotton street with his wife and three children.

St. Francis of Assisi Catholic Church Holds Groundbreaking for New Edifice

Joining other churches in the area in expansion to meet the growing population is St. Francis of Assisi church of East Palo Alto which held its ground-breaking for a new church edifice last Sunday afternoon.

Turning the soil for the ceremony was Father Richard T. Howley, pastor of the church.

The building, which will be located at Bay road near Glen way, will be erected at a cost of $176,000. It is to be of Spanish-type architecture, reminiscent of the early Californian Missions. The chapel of the church will seat 600 persons and has provision for a 90-voice choir. A stained glass depicting St. Francis of Assisi will be located above the bronze entrance doors.

A small daily chapel - mothers' room, seating 72 at the rear and to the right of the sanctuary joins the church to a cafeteria-hall which will accommodate 300 persons. There will be kitchen facilities. There is a brick archway, the shrine of St. Francis, over the entrance path to the church.

When the proposed school and convent are built in the future, the hall and kitchen facilities will be used to serve children and nuns. All social functions will be held in the hall.

George A. Steuer is the architect; W. A. Moroney, the contractor. Completion of the building is anticipated around the Christmas holiday.

Menlo Park Man Writes TV Play

Television viewers of last Sunday's Goodyear "TV Playhouse" saw an opus, titled "Man Drowning," which was written by a resident of Menlo Park and Stanford, F. W. Durkee.

Durkee came to this area on a creative writing fellowship in 1951-52 and has since decided to make Menlo Park his permanent home. He is a native of Buffalo, New York and studied at Northwestern university, and with Clifford Odets and Elia Kasan and Lee Strasberg in New York.

Durkee is currently preparing a production of his play, "Rose's Boy," which is to be presented at the assembly of Dramatists' Alliance, July 31, at Palo Alto Community center.

Informed that his play was to be televised on a nationwide hookup only last week, the Menlo Park man flew to New York to make minor revisions in the script.

MP Democrats On Central Panel

Mrs. Elizabeth Ryder, 875 Menlo Oaks drive, was Tuesday night unanimously re-elected chairman of the women's division of the San Mateo county Democratic Central committee, at a meet held at the courthouse in Redwood City.

T. Evans Wyckoff, of Menlo Park, was unanimously elected the central committee's treasurer and Trygve Elwick of East Palo Alto was chosen second vice chairman.

The new chairman of the group is Attorney Melvin Cohn of San Carlos.

The central committee is gearing its activities to successful prosecution of a campaign for election of Democratic candidates in this county. These include Dr. Harold Taggart, running for US congress and Frank Groves of Redwood City, running for the 26th assembly district seat in the state capitol.

Women's Softball Team to Start

A women's softball team, the "brainchild," partially of Menlo Park and East Palo Alto women, is going to meet for its first practice session at Mayfield school facing El Camino Real in South Palo Alto at 7 p. m. next Wednesday.

Mrs. Arthur Taylor of Menlo Park, announcing the formation of the team, explained that the Palo Alto recreation department will provide officials and equipment and, if response is great enough, can schedule play for three nights a week. It'll be "strictly for fun"; no league organization is contemplated.

Women interested should contact Mrs. Taylor at DA 3-9110 or show up at the field at the start of practice.

with SHIRLEY A. BURLEY

Summer, however perfect, is a challenge to your hair-do. Swimming in the pool or a drive along the ocean can make a mess of even the shortest hair style.

Preuss Pharmacy on Santa Cruz has a large assortment of Helena Rubenstein cosmetics for your hair. Among them is Hair Spray for $1.50, which really is simply a wonder. It's just the answer for soft, fine hair, which, till now, no one ever could do a thing with. It's perfect for your hair and your daughter's, too.

At Preuss you'll also find Dorothy Gray's new spray-on colognes. They are White Lilac, June Bouquet and Jasmine at $1.50. Just simply spray on a bit of cologne on a hot summer day. You'll feel wonderfully refreshed.

The long evenings of summer are here—cool, clear and still.

This is the time when camping on the beach or in the mountains under the trees appeals to all. Shreve and Pryce sports shop on Santa Cruz avenue has just about everything you need for living outdoors.

They've a dandy sleeping bag for $12.95 . . . waterproof, extra warm and comfortable even for your youngest — or yourself. They've also lots of other outdoor equipment to take along if you've room in your car . . . fishing tackle, tennis rackets, etc.

If you plan to stay home, Shreve and Pryce can help you to a fun summer there, too . . . croquet, badminton, etc.

It's a good idea to keep lots of film on hand to be sure you catch those moments you'd like always to remember. How often do those scenes go by while you stand there with an empty camera? It used to happen at our house until we made it a rule always to keep one roll ahead.

At the Menlo Camera Shop you'll find good film, good developing, good equipment, and good advice.

The Kitchen Delicatessen is a delight. It's under new management and they do all their own cooking on the two big stoves in their own kitchen. You may peek right in and see what's cooking.

It might be their pizza pie (60 cents), which you may order one day ahead, any kind you like. Or, you might see them making their delicious potato salad, garnished with ranch eggs, which they sell for 40 cents a pound.

Enchiladas are a specialty. They are made of thin tortillas from El Centro and filled with lean ground chuck . . . 40 cents each.

The Kitchen does catering, too. You might let them make all the sandwiches, stuffed eggs or whatever for your next party. You simply relax and eat.

Mother Missing, Too:

Children Want M-O-M-M-Y!—but Police Want to Find Missing $2000 Diamond Ring

Menlo Park police are still checking, via pawn shops in San Francisco, in an effort to locate a $2000 diamond ring missing from the Robert L. Duerson home at 1150 Hobart street. But Mrs. Marjorie Ragsdale of 1257 Willow road, the 27-year-old mother of two who admitted pawning the ring, is still free.

How this can be is explained by the fact that Mrs. Ragsdale said she didn't take the ring; she said she found it on her 4-year-old daughter's hand after she and her young ones had called at the Duersons.

Meanwhile Mrs. Ragsdale got neatly off another hook Saturday, when a San Francisco man whose late-model auto she has been driving for the past several days, refused to press charges.

And, Police Chief George Potter said yesterday, Menlo Park officers still want to get ahold of the woman for questioning. She's been missing since being released from San Francisco jail Saturday, while her children, ages 4 and 2, are being taken care of by her parents in San Mateo.

Here's the sequence of events:

A couple of weeks ago, Mrs. Duerson noted that her $2000 diamond ring was missing. She thought she had lost it, so she placed a classified ad, asking for its return, in the Recorder.

Subsequently, a couple of days later, she and her husband were relaxing in the patio at their home when Mrs. Ragsdale entered the front door.

Everybody seemed to be surprised by this encounter; Mrs. Ragsdale only knew the Duersons' address because, several years earlier in San Francisco, Mr. Duerson had been an acquaintance of Mrs. Ragsdale's parents, according to Mrs. Duerson.

RING APPEARS

Meanwhile, the $2000 ring had turned up in a San Francisco pawn shop, put there, according to police, by a person who answered Mrs. Ragsdale's description. The woman, also, admitted pawning the ring.

Next day was July 8 and the classified ad telling of the loss of a valuable diamond ring appeared in print.

Forthwith—a few hours later, in fact—the fingerpiece was redeemed from the pawnshop. But not by Mrs. Ragsdale.

The latter woman said she had lost the pledge ticket. (Police are still checking to locate the "finder.")

Meanwhile, local officers got Mrs. Ragsdale's address, and took her in for questioning. They couldn't establish a theft charge, however, since the mother said her daughter had apparently picked up the ring though she admitted pawning it.

The police established that the woman was driving a 1953-model auto. This didn't sound right, so they checked with San Francisco police and found that it had been reported stolen.

So Friday afternoon, Mrs. Ragsdale was taken into custody by San Francisco police and her two little children were taken to Menlo Park police station for later transfer to their grandparents' home in San Mateo.

The children, at the police station, didn't appear to be particularly impressed with the merits of the situation.

They wanted their M-O-M-M-Y ! they howled, and cried and cried and cried.

64 Communicable Diseases Found

A total of 64 cases of communicable diseases—a relatively high one for a summer month—was reported from Menlo Park during June, the San Mateo county department of health and welfare said this week.

Measles seemed to be the most popular malady. There were 41 cases of that malady reported. Next most popular ailment was chicken pox, of which 15 cases were reported. Besides these, the city was the scene of three cases of mumps, two cases of syphilis and one case each of tuberculosis, gonorrhea and German measles.

Atherton fared better. In that municipality, two cases of measles, seven cases of chicken pox and one case of tuberculosis were found during the month.

But Woodside fared best of all. From there, there was but one communicable disease case reported, measles.

Explorer Post 166 Sells Subscriptions

Explorer Scouts of Menlo Park Post 166 this week reminded residents that they are continuing their fundraising activities, selling subscriptions to well-known periodicals in this area.

But they've got a new twist: Persons who subscribe can be reminded, if they want to be, when their subscriptions next come due.

Renewals will be taken on all magazines; the regular subscription rate prevails.

Anyone wishing to renew a subscription to a magazine is urged to call Jim Morley, DA 3-4463; Herb Gordon, DA 3-9214 or Bim Beckman, DA 3-5230.

The Scouts, who started the subscription-getting activity last month on a temporary basis, are now doing it on a permanent schedule.

Scouters to Meet At Pomponio Today

Officers, institutional representatives and members-at-large of the Live Oak Boy Scout District staff are to visit Camp Pomponio this evening, it was announced this week by District Commissioner William V. Regan.

Those attending the meet are to assemble at 6:30 p. m. today at the citys" parking plaza number 1, behind the Menlo Park plaza shops.

Thoe participating will have supper at the camp, and will tour its facilities, besides participating in business phases of the meeting.

Rotarians Hear Indian Speaker

Dr. S. Bhattacharjee of Stanford university, was guest speaker before the Menlo Park Rotarians, at their regular luncheon meeting yesterday noon.

Dr. Bhattacharjee discussed "Indian-American Relations" before the group. Henry J. Broderson gave the introduction.

Last night the first club assembly of the current year was held at the Green room, city council chambers building, civic center. A board of directors' meeting was held at the same time and place.

20 Fires in Five Days Keep Firemen Busy

Menlo Park Fire District firemen answered 20 calls during the five days between July 8 through 13, but most were minor in nature in spite of the higher fire danger of warm days.

Only two building fires—with a total estimated loss somewhat in excess of $1000—were among the blazes reported. Most of the calls were to grass fires with such calls as those to "smoke scares," "lockouts," and similar events making up the bulk of the remainder.

The fire where most damage was done apparently started in a shed at the rear of Tin Pan Alley, a night club at 3471 El Camino Real.

By the time the blaze was discovered by Atherton police, at 4:24 a. m., it had spread to an adjoining garage at a vacant dwelling at 20 Loyola drive. Bar supplies accounted for the bulk of the damage.

The other building fire was started at the garage of the home of Dr. R. E. Berner, 43 Manzanita drive, in Atherton, by a small boy playing with matches. Scorched walls were the only result.

Co-op Hires Wise For New Survey

The firm of Harold F. Wise and associates, authors of Menlo Park's 1952 master plan, since modified, and planning and marketing advisers, have been hired to make a survey for the Consumers Cooperative society of Palo Alto.

The firm already numbers the city of Palo Alto among its clients, for which it is making a master plan survey at the present time.

The cooperative retailing society is planning to open a Los Altos outlet later this summer, according to its officers, and it is with this in mind that Wise has been retained.

The firm has its headquarters at 1077 El Camino Real here.

Seven From Area Visit Younger

Seven Menlo Park, Atherton and Woodside area residents were among recent visitors at the Washington offices of Congressman J. Arthur Younger, it was reported from the capital this week.

Those from Menlo Park who stopped at his offices while touring the capital included Captain J. T. Quilter, Robert Bisio and Dean E. Holman; those from Atherton included J. R. McCann and Gerry Wolf; those from Woodside were Mr. and Mrs. Warrington Dorst.

Pvt. Pole on Duty At Korea Post

KOREA (Special) — Private Newton C. Pole, son of Mrs. Grace A. Pole, 1182 Bay Laurel drive, Menlo Park, is now serving with the 2nd infantry division in Korea.

Private Pole, a mechanic in the 2nd division's aviation company, entered the army last November and completed basic training at Fort Ord.

Willows Residents Laud New Lights

The city council of Menlo Park got a pat on the back this week from the Willows Residents association. The area group wrote to thank the city for installation of the traffic lights at the intersection of Willow road and Middlefield road, declaring that the job had been well done and had eliminated the congestion formerly prevailing in the area.

BRAND NEW MARINES GREETED

'Box Social' Set As Fundraiser

An old fashiened box social with the double purpose of fundraising and fun will be held by the Menlo-Atherton Democratic club Saturday afternoon, July 17, at the Atherton estate of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Eichler.

Club President Stanley M. Felix reports that all Democrats are welcome to attend. The women will each bring a box supper for two and each man will pay $2.50 for the privilege of sharing the supper with the lady whose number he draws.

Dr. Harold F. Taggart, Democratic candidate for the Ninth Congressional district, and Frank Groves, Democratic candidate for the 26th Assembly district, will be honor guests at the 4 p. m. affair.

Entertainment and fun is promised for all who attend, Felix said. Mrs. Myron Goldman is serving as chairman of the supper and is being assisted by Mrs. Marvin Chodorow, Thomas O'Neill, Dr. Richard H. Blum, Mrs. Eli Goldfarb and Mrs. Eichler.

Those wishing to attend should phone Mrs. Chodorow at DA 2-7109. The Eichler home is at 19 Irving avenue, Atherton.

Tire Recapping Service Opens

Now open at 995 El Camino Real is Forman's Tire company, first automobile tire recapping establishment in Menlo Park.

Operator of the new enterprise is M. W. "String" Forman, who for 20 years has been associated with the tire business in San Francisco on both wholesale and retail levels.

In charge of shop operations for Forman is Victor Chaney, previously associated with Forman in San Francisco.

The business offers new, used and recapped tires, all recapping being done on the premises.

The new Cubs include Steve Nichols, Jeff Handy, Mike Lawler, Billy Cornet, Jerry Flanagan, Peter Judy, Dick Hansen, Phil Roberts, Roger, Neathery, Donny Renee, Kent Rossiter, David Kane, David Brown, Lino Davensport, Billie Gray, Neal Silver, Michael Jones, Gregory Mikklesen, Chris Heelherst, Hassler Ott and Gareth Ott Jr.

Minor Accident At Oak Grove-ECR

Autos driven by Elizabeth Dorina Anderson, 63, of 252 University drive and Elthelyn Wheeler Hamilton, 51, of Los Altos, were involved in a minor accident at El Camino Real and Oak Grove avenue last Thursday noon, Menlo Park police report.

The mishap occurred as Mrs. Hamilton attempted a left turn from the highway's northbound lanes. Mrs. Anderson's auto, which was southbound, had to be towed from the scene.

Citation Follows Minor Accident

Pero Gundayao, 50, of Stockton, was cited for driving with an expired operator's license in his possession, following a mishap Friday morning at Willow road and Newbridge street, police report.

Gundayao, who was driving west on Willow, was involved in a minor crash with an auto driven by Anita Kathy Smith of 1255 Madera ovenue, Menlo Park. Mrs. Smith was driving north on Newbridge sereet.

Both autos were driven away.

Fire District Okays Budget Of $420,100

Menlo Park Fire District commissioners Saturday pronounced themselves pleased with the condition of the district's personnel and equipment, and adopted a tentative $420,100 budget for the coming year.

The budget was adopted at the conclusion of the district's annual budget hearing, at which no protests were heard; the pronouncement concerning the district's condition followed the commissioners' annual inspection of all stations, engines and men.

The proposed budget must be approved by the San Mateo county board of supervisors. Some $72,000 greater than the budget for the 1953-54 fiscal year, it envisages $40,000 to help pay the cost of a proposed new headquarters fire station.

A station site at Middlefield road and Santa Monica avenue has already been purchased; the commissioners have also set aside funds from the 1953-54 budget to aid in defraying its cost. Cost of the proposed station, along with drill tower, classroom and other auxiliary facilities, is expected to be about $10,000.

Architect Leslie I. Nichols of Atherton has been drawing plans for such a station.

Besides allowing funds for the eventual construction of the headquarters station, the proposed budget allows for a five per cent increase in the salaries of firemen.

The budget hearing, held at 9 a. m. before the inspection, drew no protesting citizens. Budget proposals were published several weeks ago, as the commissioners set the hearing.

Touring the district's six stations, the commissioners found things "in top shape," according to Commission Chairman Malcolm Paterson.

THE WAYNE SANDENS of 1775 Santa Cruz avenue became the parents of a son July 5.

THE DEL NORTE avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O'Brien July 6 became the dwelling of a little girl.

JULY 7 was the date gladdened by the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. John E. Sharon of 594 Sixth avenue.

Consumer Loan Agency Opens Office Here

The forty-first branch of the Mercantile Acceptance company, consumer loan agency, was opened earlier this month at 609 Santa Cruz avenue and James Powers of Los Altos has been designated manager of the firm here.

The firm is the first consumer loan company to open offices in Menlo Park.

"The tremendous growth of the Peninsula has caused us to analyze the business potential of the entire territory," John S. Cole, Mercantile Acceptance's vice president said this week in explaining the company's move.

"After a careful survey we selected Menlo Park as site for the new branch office, on the basis that it is ideally suited to provide service to the people of the lower Peninsula."

Cole resides with his wife and three children at 485 Arbor road here. He is president of the California Loan and Finance association, a director of the Peninsula Bear-Backers, a member of the P-TA, Palo Alto Elks club, University of California Alumni association, and is a Cub Scout dad.

Meanwhile, Powers, who is a member of the Menlo Park Presbyterian church, announces that a Menlo Park native is to serve as his assistant manager. The assistant is Harold E. McClintock Jr. currently of Palo Alto.

Mercantile Acceptance company has been in business since 1920 and has headquarters at 333 Montgomery street, San Francisco.

Pack 62 Names New Chairman

Mr. and Mrs. William McGivern were introduced as newly-named greeting committee co-chairmen, and Chester Lasky was introduced as new awards chairman, at a recent meeting of Cub Scout Pack 62 of North Fair Oaks.

The group is planning a family picnic and "treasure hunt" outing later in July.

Other summer plans call for the setting-up of a roster of fathers, who are to be on hand at Garfield school playground on Saturday mornings to supervise summer games.

SSH! THE ARMY'S ASLEEP!

Mayor Belangie said it. "This is stupid," he said.

Other councilmen said it, and so did the city officials.

But we want to say it, too.

The Army's assertion that location of an armory between the civic center and Alma street is unacceptable because of the disturbance from the Southern Pacific railroad tracks and the machinery of Peninsula Building Materials company is the largest, most full-blown, glorified, incomparable and incomprehensible load of assininity we ever have been privileged to gaze upon.

A part of the same package is their assertion that the property is of "secondary" value.

All this arises out of the fair and reasonable offer of the city to trade land in the civic center area as a site for the 6th Army's proposed Menlo Park armory, instead of having the building on the property in Stanford Village that the Army has glommed onto.

The city has pointed out that location of the armory on the proposed Ravenswood avenue site would be detrimental to development of the professional and administrative zoning of which the city is so proud and for which the land is officially designated.

The city has pointed out that location of the armory six blocks from the National Guard armory, for which land already is set aside in the civic center area, makes much less sense than to put them side by side.

The city has pointed out that putting the armory where the Army wants it would keep valuable property off the tax rolls. That would mean money out of the pocket of every taxpayer in the city.

The Army's assertion that the property offered by the city is "secondary" is not only ridiculous but is refuted by the federal government itself, which hung on that area of the Army's own former Dibble hospital land the highest price tag of all at the time the city purchased the civic center property in 1947.

If the Ravenswood avenue site is now more valuable than the other, the fact is due only to the foresighted zoning actions of the City of Menlo Park, not to anything ever done by the federal government. And if the civic center was good, high-priced land in 1947, it certainly has not deteriorated in value.

But that flimsy argument is the last one the Army thought up to explain why it wants to reject the logic put forward in the city's proposal.

The first reason they thought up was that the city-proposed site was too near the railroad tracks. It would be too noisy. And Peninsula Building Materials would be too noisy, too.

As Councilman William Lawson points out, Central school got along all right beside the railroad.

As Mayor Belangie points out, he bought a home that backs right up to the railroad tracks.

As we would like to point out, the MENLO PARK RECORDER is nearer Peninsula Building Materials than the armory would be, and we don't mind at all.

If the reasons advanced are sufficient to lead the military into violating the rights and flouting the laws of a community, we might as well turn the country over to them now.

In our experience, any drill sergeant who can't shout down the Southern Pacific ought to be in another business.

Your City's Business:

Hails C of C Support

By CHARLES P. BURGESS

The Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce has announced a very constructive "program of progress" for the coming year.

The sixteen - point program detailed in last week's Recorder is considerably broader than just what might be considered to be the local business man's interest. Dealing as it does with proper zoning control, civic center development, commuter parking, school and library facilities and needs, and similar objectives, it is truly a civic rather than a commercial undertaking.

It is a material aid to the city council to have so representative and influential a group as the Chamber of Commerce working along parallel lines and for the same goal, a better city in which to live.

Until recent years when the chamber became a strong organization the council was carrying the burden of a civic improvement program largely alone.

Of course our active service clubs have contributed substantially to civic betterment, but their objectives have been restricted in scope, and they do not have full time employees devoting their energies to the formulation and implementation of civic programs.

The council has found the chamber's manager to be most helpful in advising us of the needs, sentiments and objectives of Menlo Park's business community.

Number one on the chamber's program is the attraction of new businesses and desirable industries to Menlo Park. This is a very worth while objective for all our citizens, for the proper building of our commercial tax base will hold down the steadily rising tax burden on the residential property owner.

Industry of the wrong kind, of course, would not accomplish this objective, for the taxes it would itself pay would be more than offset by the lower values it would inflict on surrounding areas.

Our future commercial development possibilities are somewhat restricted by the impending Stanford development. The best bet then is to attract more office buildings to our administrative and professional office building zone, for here assessed valuations are high and the effect on the area beneficial.

But the problem is to get more land available for such buildings. Little is presently obtainable in Linfield Oaks.

Meanwhile, the competitive Stanford administrative - professional office building zone may open up. The answer is that we must get Stanford Village unfrozen and the surplus property on the market.

This is a project of primary importance on which the chamber and the council should cooperate for the benefit of our entire community.

Menlo Building Barometer

Ten building permits, authorizing a total of $20,425 worth of construction, were issued by the City of Menlo Park during the week from July 6 to July 12. They included:

NEW RESIDENCES

Peter P. Jost, owner and builder; 112 Chester street; $10,000.

OTHER PERMITS

J. Manning, owner and builder; residence alterations at 325 Arbor road; $800.

Forman Tire company, owner and builder; new sign at 605 Menlo avenue; $25.

Henry Bereilles, owner; day work; residence alterations at 601 Laurel avenue; $1200.

Lucky Stores, owner; Ray Winther company, builder; walk-in boxes at 611 Santa Cruz avenue; $4000.

William Schleier, owner and builder; residence alterations at 965 Alice lane; $200.

Dr. G. W. Ulberg, owner; day work; office alterations at 808 Santa Cruz avenue; $500.

Martin Packard, owner and builder; residence alterations at 307 O'Keefe street; $300.

L. E. Cooke, owner; F. C. Keeler, builder; residence repair at 518 Pope street; $400.

W. W. Cribbens, owner; D. J. Kazakes, builder; patio cover at 368 Waverley street; $300.

The oldest tree growing in the state of Texas is a cypress at Colcan,estimated to be 4000 years old.

"Say, pal, could you spare me a dame for a cup of coffee?"

Weathermouse:

IS MINSTREL

"You can't beat it! You can't beat it!" Walter the weathermouse repeated over and over as he entered the office.

We decided to go along with this, so as Mr. Interlocutor, we queried, "Uh, what can't you beat, Mr. Bones (alias Walter)?"

A HARD boiled egg!" triumphed Walter.

He was still chuckling as we threw him out of sight.

Armory Site . . .

Belangie broke forth with the exclamation: "I think that is stupid!"

"I should like to authorize the city manager to state our feelings in the strongest possible terms to all parties. If we have no more control than this over properties within our city, it is time the federal government took over."

STATES RIGHTS

Councilman William R. Lawson pointed out that Central school has for years operated successfully on a site closer to the railroad than the armory would be.

Belangie, who resides at 428 Felton drive, added, "And the mayor lives beside the railroad."

Longson added that, when the city originally purchased civic center from the federal government, it was not considered "secondary," but was the highest price land in the Dibble hospital area.

City Attorney James T. O'Keefe Jr. climaxed the chorus of disdain by declaring that the Army's attitude was "a direct violation of states rights on the municipal level and an affront to the city's zoning regulations."

All these comments were embodied in the resolution.

It was at Longson's suggestions that copies were directed to go to the county supervisors, who have, he said, even larger interests than the city in returning the valuable Stanford Village area to the tax rolls, and to Atherton, which lies immediately across Ravenswood avenue from the proposed armory site.

City and Chamber Conclude Agreement

An agreement between the city of Menlo Park and the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce was concluded this week under the terms of which the chamber agrees to provide services to the city in the form of publicity and promotion of the general welfare, for which the city will pay $375 each quarter.

The payments will be made upon presentation and approval of a bill from the chamber showing the nature of services rendered.

In addition, the city appropriated and ordered paid to the chamber the amount of $144.33 for services rendered to the city during the preceding fiscal year. This, City Manager C. L. Longson explained, was late payment of bills submitted by the chamber under a previous agreement.

SIGN MUST GO

The city council this week ordered the Coldiron and Peoples Oil company, owners of a gasoline service station at the northeasterly corner of El Camino Real and Glenwood avenue to remove within 30 days a sign on the premises which does not conform to the city's sign control law.

The Recorder always welcomes letters from its readers on any subject of public interest. Within the limitations of available space, all such letters will be published as received so long as they do not violate decency and good taste and provided they are signed.

Letters:

Writer Tells Parking Needs

Editor,
The Recorder:

Once again, I state that I am in favor of parking for the property owners on the southerly side of Santa Cruz avenue subject to certain conditions. These conditions are as follows:

(a) The property owners must receive the best for the least amount of money.

(b) The expensive properties must be eliminated.

(c) Santa Cruz avenue property owners on the northerly side must pay a proportionate share in the same rates as the property owners on the southerly side paid for the first parking project.

(d) The parties who seek to get a rezoning on Menlo avenue for a super market should pay their share of the parking area on the basis of commercial value. If the council allows them to participate in the parking project on the present valuation, I believe it unfair and unjust and will join with any property owners to enjoin them by legal action.

(e) Engineering, legal and appraisal fees should be kept at a minimum; these costs have been too high in the past.

Mark J. Loughlin

CUT-UP APPROVED

Final approval was given Tuesday night by the city council to Menlo Manor, a subdivision of four-plus acres between Coleman avenue an dthe U. S. Veterans Administration hospital into 19 apartment-zone parcels.

More About School Needs:

Reasons for Setting 1500 as Efficient HS Lead Maximum Given by State Officials

By PHYLLIS WALKER

This is the second in a series of articles dealing with the high school problem as it relates to California schools and particularly to the Sequoia Union High School District. Last week we we told of a meeting with state school housing officials with representatives from this area to discuss pupil loads and size of school plants. One of the first questions asked was as to the recommended number of pupils to a high school. The second discussed was that of the size of the physical plant. This week we are printing Charles Gibson's report. Dr. Gibson is director of the division of secondary education, California State Department of Education:

WHAT SHOULD THE MAXIMUM ENROLLMENT BE ON A HIGH SCHOOL SITE?

1. A school unit should be large enough to include an area equivalent to a well-identified community of people who have a certain amount of face-to-face relations and interests in common. Some union high school districts which embrace more than one community have found it desirable, therefore, to build a second, a third or more schools, each serving a different community of people within the district. Where community needs have not been adequately provided for on this basis, some communities have withdrawn in order to have their own high school.

2. Many years ago,I wrote a master's thesis on factors affecting the popularization of high schools in our 48 states. My theory, and that of my major adviser was that states with large high schools should have greater holding power on youngsters because of the broader curriculum opportunities they could provide. However, that was not what the study found. Rather, states with small high schools had the greater holding power, and not because smaller high schools were better but because small schools were closer to the needs and interests of their respective communities which most large schools were not because so many of them drew their students from several communities in order to become large.

3. By experience, teachers have come to the conclusion that the large school has certain irremediable disadvantages. One of these is the impersonal character of the big school. This makes it difficult for students and staff to know one another intimately enough for the creation of an adequate sense of "belonging," which is so necessary for a unified school.

4. Many students are overyhelmed by the size and complexity of the large school. Furthermore, it happens almost inevitably that numerous worthy students are forced into the background by reason of age or temperament, so that the school is thwarted in its efforts to teach self-reliance and a sense of responsibility.

5. Many thoughtful teachers agree that the efficiency of their services depends in considerable measure upon close relationships between home and school. They feel that the very size of the large school curtails close understanding and cooperation between school and home. Moreover, very large schools tend to involve several communities different in character and educational needs.

6. Community - centered schools are able to carry on a better adult education program.

7. Coordination of the instructional program becomes most difficult in a very large high school. instructional departments in such a high school tend to become more and more self-contained and desirable integration between specialized subject matter fields becomes less and less.

8. The compulsory physical education program runs into teacher station-space problems on a limited site with a high school enrollment of 3600 pupils. Such a high school operating on a six period day would need to provide teaching space for as many as seven hundred (700) pupils in one perio.

BREAKDOWN

This sized group, broken down into class sizes of thirty-five pupils each, would require twenty physical education teachers and twenty teaching stations. Shower and locker facilities would need to be provided to care for this peak period of 700 pupils.

9. Although the needs of each high school program should be translated into site needs by the Space Adequacy Survey and a Master Plot Plan, current practice in California is to provide a forty (40) acre site of usable land for a high school enrollment of 2000 pupils.

10. Large schools tend to deny many pupils the opportunity to participate in student government and other student activities.

11. Student traffic congestion becomes a major problem in large high schools, particularly those having multi-storied buildings.

12. The problems of congestion of such service facilities as libraries, cafeterias, toilets, etc., become a serious problem even with staggered schedules.

WEIGHING FACTORS

13. After weighing the many factors involved, the Bureau of Secondary Education of the California State Department of Education recommended a policy maximum enrollment of 1500 pupils for a senior high school.

14. At a point ranging between 1500 and 2000 enrollment the Academic and Specialized teaching stations for the average high school educational program came into good balance to permit a high percentage of utilization of the total school plant.

15. Maintenance and operation costs do not decrease in ratio to the size of the school.

a. Maintenance costs of buildings housing large high school enrollments tend to be high.

b. Operation costs are high because of the additional personnel required ta keep a large plant with a large enrollment operating at a maximum efficiency. Any breakdown of service creates a serious operational problem.

Next week we will summarize the factors involved in the recommended 40 acre sites per high school as advocated by the state.

25 Years Ago:

'South Crossing' Not New Idea

The files of the Menlo Park Recorder reveal that, 25 years ago this week, the following items were news in the young community:

July 12, 1929:

"A final attempt to obtain a franchise for a bay bridge at Candlestick Point . . . was indicated this week when John E. Manders, San Francisco attorney, started publication of notice of intention to apply for such a franchise . . .

"Two previous efforts to obtain a franchise for a bridge from this point met with refusal from the county supervisors . . . Strong opposition to the granting of the franchises developed both in San Francisco and San Mateo counties, San Francisco fearing that a bridge built across the bay from Candlestick Point would defeat their chances of ever getting a permit from the War Department to construct a span from San Francisco to Oakland."

BENEFIT PLANNED

"According to advance information a record breaking crowd is promised at the Spanish Circus to be helr at the Menlo Circus Club on July 27 given for the benefit of the Stanford Convalescent Home."

GRASS FIRES

"The local fire department has been quite busy this week extinguishing grass fires which members of the department think are being set by some one."

Tidewater Associated Gets City Gas Contract

The city council Tuesday night awarded a contract for sale of bulk gasoline for the operation of city vehicles during the 1954-55 fiscal year to the Tidewater Associated company, whose bid of 21.72 cents per gallon for hi-octane fuel was the lowest of seven received.

Two Wins, No Defeats:

MP Swim Team Overcomes San Carlos, Moves into Position for Strike at Title

Burgess park pool's swim team draws a bye this coming weekend, after which, on July 25, it will meet Peninsula Country club at San Mateo to break a tie which exists in Peninsula interelub swimming competition.

Both the locals and the San Ma teans have two wins, and are tied for first place in the five-man circuit.

The Burgess parkers got their half of the present first-place spot by downing Los Altos two weeks ago, and last Sunday beating San Carlos by an easy 136 62 score.

The winner of the July 25 meet, according to the present statistics, will probably be favored for championship honors in a five-way meet in August.

The results of Sunday's meet:

8 and under girls, 25 yard freestyle: Debby Lee (BP); Sue Fenn (SC); Martha Rush (SC). Time: 17.7.

8 and under boys, 25 yard freestyle: John McCrary (BP); Sid Goldstein (SC); no third. Time: 18.8.

Relays: Boys. Won by San Carlos team. Relay: Girls. Won by Burgess Park team of Ann Warner, Pam Whitehead, Georgia Bryson and Sue Javet.

HOLDS RECORD

TOP SWIMMER — Sue Lampman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lampman of 51 James avenue, Atherton, on July 4 trimmed .5 seconds from the national junior olympic freestyle event, at a meet at Fleischaker pool in San Francisco. An Encinal school pupil, Sue is currently a member of the Burgess park pool swim team. Earlier this year, she represented the county in the statewide division of the annual national spelling bee.

DOG SHOW DATES

Entries are now being accepted for the San Mateo Kennel club's annual dog show, to be held Aug. 8 at Sequoia high school, it was announced this week. Entries are now being accepted by show Superintendent Bernice Behrendt of 2328 Fillmore street, San Francisco.

Still Facing Threats:

Lions, Seybold-Ferguson stretch Leads in Little League Loops

Here's:

SCHEDULE OF COMING GAMES

Games coming up at Menlo-Atherston Little League park, at the Ravenswood avenue and Middlefield road, opposite the high school:

TODAY

Seybold and Ferguson vs. Shreve and Pryce at 5 p.m.; Lowe's vs. Kiwanis at 6:30 p.m.

FRIDAY

Judd and Wright vs. Van de Sande at 5 p.m.; Lions vs. All American Market at 6:30 p.m.

MONDAY

Lowe's vs. All American at 5 p.m.; Seybold and Ferguson vs. Van de Sande at 6:30 p.m.

TUESDAY

Lions vs. Kiwanis at 5 p.m.; Judd and Wright vs. Shreve and Pryce at 6:30 p.m.

Lions Hit Kiwanis, 17-2, in National

Rebounding after their upset loss to All American Market on July 6, the National League-leading Menlo Park Lions pummeled the Menlo Park Kiwanis, 17-2, on Friday. Larry Becker's crew smashed out a season high of 14 hits.

Pat Montgomery, Matthews, Al Pryal, and Jerry Graham all drilled two hits for the winners while Chuck Yannacone smashed a perfect three-for-three, and drove in four runs. Montgomery, Matthews, Danny Partemi and Pryal all doubled.

The Kiwanis managed just three singles off the combined efforts of Patemi and Bob Reinhardt. Partemi allowed just one hit and no runs in his three innings while striking out six. He received credit for the win.

Reinhardt, in his first mound appearance, got off to a shaky start, allowing two runs—one of them earned—on two hits, two walks and three errors.

Seybold-Ferguson Scores No-Hit Win Over V de S

Behind the no-hit, no-run pitching of Cliff Davis and Mike Flynn, Seybold and Ferguson real estate secured its American League lead Thursday with a 12-0 victory over Van de Sande clothiers.

The win put the realtors a game-and-a-half ahead of the pack, with four wins against just one setback.

Davis and Flynn halved the win, each pitching three innings, each facing nine batters and each striking out six. One man reached first on an infield error and Davis, the starter and winner, walked another in the third inning. No one else got on base for the losers and the runner who was safe on the error was picked up in an inning-ending double play.

Flynn got three hits and drove in three runs. Peter Edelen singled and doubled and drove in three and Jim Jorgensen banged two singles for the winners.

Lowe's Scare Lions Before Falling By 7-6 Score

In his first two starts, the Menlo Lions' fastballing righthander, Al Pryal, had everything his own way. Hhe threw a no-hit shuout in his first start and allowed just one infield hit and no runs in his second game.

Things haven't been the same since. All American market poked nine of his quick ones right back out for base hits last week and beat Pryal, 12-9, when Frank Denny bombed a last-inning homer with two aboard. Then, on Tuesday, Lowe's scared the pants off him before succumbing, 7-6.

Both of his earlier masterpieces had been worked against Lowe's, but Dave Dahle's squad wasn't having any the third time around. They banged eight hits. Carl Goldman hit a double and a single and Bob Strawther cowtailed a two-run home run to put the Realtors temporarily ahead, 5-4, in the third.

A three-run Lions' third sewed it up, however. Jerry Graham hit a double and two singles and Danny Partemi hit two singles. Pryal struck out nine.

Here Are:

THE STANDINGS

Menlo-Atherton Little League standings, including games of July 13:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

	W	L	T	GB
Menlio Lions	6	1	0	—
Lowe Realty	4	3	0	2
All American Mkt.	3	3	1	2½
Menlo Kiwanis	0	6	1	5½

AMERICAN LEAGUE

	W	L	T	GB
Seybold-Ferguson	5	1	1	—
Shreve-Pryce	3	3	1	2
Van de Sande	3	4	0	2½
Judd-Wright	2	5	0	3½

S-P Moves to 2nd Place in American

A five-run third inning Tuesday enabled Shreve and Pryce sports shop to score a 6-2 victory over Van de Sande clothiers and thereby move into second pace in the American League standings.

The defending champions banged out seven hits off southpaw Bob Kinesley while Jerry Varty was carving a three-hit victory in his first start.

Kinesley was very sharp from time to time, however, and struck out 14, high for the season in the American League. Left fielder Nelson clubbed two doubles off him and drove in two runs to be the number one problem. Ken Sierra's triple and two errors in the fatal third also hurt.

Varty struck out nine, but his control was not sharp. Even though he was firing slow and deliberate, the youngest Varty athlete walked six.

11 Walks Aid J-W In Win over S-P

Eleven walks spelled disaster for defending American League champion Shreve and Pryce sports shop Friday and triumph for Bud Heljm's cellar-dwelling Judd and Wright nine. The latter club managed just one hit off three Sport Shop fastballers but turned the many free passes into a 5-4 upset victory.

Shreve and Pryce got a three-run bulge in the first inning on a single by John Curti, a two-run double by Jerry Varty, and "Red" McCarthy's ground ball. Judd and Wright capitalized on four walks off Curti and Brigham's single to get two runs back in the second, however.

Then in the third, Jerry Varty took over for Curti and immediately walked the bases loaded. Mike Daney relieved but was unable to put out the fire and three runs scored.

Judd & Wright Loses Another

Judd and Wright is in last place in the Menlo-Atherton American Little League. Seybold and Ferguson real estate is in first place.

Monday, the teams played each other. Judd and Wright got one hit. Seybold and Ferguson got nine hits. Judd and Wright scored one run. Seybold and Ferguson scored 12 runs. Judd and Wright is still in last place by one game and Seybold and Ferguson is now in first place by two games.

John Parish and Hadden each got two hits and Pitchers Cliff Davis and Mike Flynn each drove in two runs. Davis pitched three innings of no-hit, no-run ball and Flynn gave up one bad hop infield hit and one unearned run in the last inning.

Bud Heljm threw three pitchers into the fray but eight errors behind them and eight walks by them, beside the big realtor bats, told the story.

All-American Wins 3rd Game of Year

In 1953, All American market's Little League team won three games. Tuesday, Bud Heljm's 1954 All American market squad won its third game. And this year's club still has 11 games to go to improve on the mark of its predecessor.

The marketmen stomped on the Menlo Kiwanis, 15-4, to hang up win number three of the new season. Joe Svetina, converted from catcher to third base where he gives umpires less trouble, rapped out a double and two singles and Glenn Barrett drove in four runs with a triple and a ground ball.

There were eight market hits in all, matched by eight Kiwanis errors and surprised by 11 walks. At that, the winners left nine men on base in four innings.

Next Week There'll Be:

'RAGS 'N' TATTERS' DAYS

Next week, July 21 and 22, there'll be "Rags 'n' Tatters" days at four playgrounds in Menlo Park.

The events, which will cater to youngsters' desires to "dress up," will be held at Willow and Belle Haven school playgrounds on Wednesday and at Nealon park and Hillview school playground on Thursday. Those participating will garb themselves as gypsies, hoboes, and such-like people for the afternoon.

Miss Gayle Ailinger, calling attention to the program, said that those participating should bring lunches. Events of the day, including games and costume-judging, get underway immediately after lunch and continue until the playgrounds close at 4 p.m.

She also said that, throughout the week, games and stories will be geared to the "special event" theme.

Meanwhile, Miss Allinger reminded young playground patrons in West Menlo Park, pet shows are to be held today at Nealon and Hillview. They were held yesterday at Willow and Belle Haven.

Stan Sexton Gets Rec Dept. Post

Stan Sexton, formerly of Alameda, has been named recreation and swimming pool supervisor, taking over the post formerly held by Duane Mattison, it was announced this week by City Recreation Director Fred Parsons.

Mattison has accepted a post as recreation supervisor for the city of South San Francisco.

The new recrea tion aide, who has had four yeads of experience, is currently attending San Francisco State college while holding down the job here.

He and his wife plan to move to Menlo Park as soon as possible.

Lowes Smashes All-Amercan, 19-4

Lowe Realtors turned their big guns loose on All American market in a National League game Thursday to the tune of 19-4. All American scored all its runs in the first and was commanding a 4-1 lead when Dave Dahle's crew unleashed a nine-run second inning attack and scored easily thereafter.

Chris Chementi, Carl Goldman, Martin Christiansen and Frank Del Pozzo all got two hits in the 11-safety assault. Chementi and Christiansen doubled while Goldman drove in four runs.

Frank Denny, whose three-run last inning home run gave the Marketmen an upset, 12-9, victory over the Lions on Tuesday, got two of the three hits off Goldman—a single and a triple.

The Marketmen erred 12 times, allowing Lowe's just two earned runs while none of their own four were earned.

Schedule:

Baseball Clinic Set Up for Farm Teams At Four Playgrounds by Rec Department

Menlo Park recreation department this week set up a schedule of "baseball clinics" for boys who are members of Little League and Babe Ruth baseball farm teams in the city, and urged all boys who wish to improve their baseball techniques to attend.

Clinic sessions are to be held at Hillview school, Nealon park, Willow school and Belle Haven school, under the direction of male supervisors assigned to those locales.

Farm team members who have been registered as such have already received special invitations to attend; other boys, between ages of 8 and 15 years, who wish to improve their baseball techniques, are also urged to attend.

The clinic meets will feature, besides actual instruction, the playing of inter-squad games through the season and an "all-star" game near the end of summer will conclude the sessions.

The classes will be aimed at improving skills in infield and outfield throwing as well as pitching; work on fielding; base-running techniques such as leading-off, sliding, and running.

MORE TECHNIQUES

Such offensive techniques as use of signals, the "squeeze play," and prevention of stolen bases will also be worked out, but on the other hand, boys will be given instruction in how to steal bases, undo possible "double play" situations and other phases of the game will also be given.

The schedule of classes:

Boys of ages 8, 9 and 10 residing in the Hillview school area are to report to Ken Calhoun at the Hillview playground on Monday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday;

Boys of ages 11 and 12 will report to Al McLeod at Nealon park on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Boys residing in the Willow school area, between ages of 8 and 10, should report to Frank Segurson at Willow school from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays until Aug. 6. After that date, their schedule will be changed to 10 a.m. to 12 noon the same day.

Boys of ages 11 and 12 from the same area will report to the same school playground from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

IN BELLE HAVEN

All boys between ages of 8 and 12, residing in the Belle Haven area, are to report to Tom Crane at Belle Haven school in accordance with the following schedule:

Boys 8, 9 and 10: 10:15 a.m. Monday; 1:15 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday.

Boys 11 and 12 years old: 1:15 p.m. Monday, 10:15 a.m. Wednesday, 3 p.m. Thursday.

For Boys of Babe Ruth League age, the schedule calls for workouts at Nealon park between 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at Nealon park and at Belle Haven schools at 3 p.m. Mondays and at 10:15 a.m. Tuesday and Thursdays.

Basketball Topic Of Meeting Tonite at Gym

A special meeting at which will be determined the number of 'teen age and adult basketball teams which can be assembled for forthcoming summer play will be held tonight at Burgess park gym, it was announced this week by Stan Sexton, who has been named to take charge of the league.

Tonights' meet, at the gym office, is to convene at 8 p. m.

Sexton urged all prospective team representatives, who might be unable to attend the meeting, to contact him at DA 2-1727.

Number of teams which will be entered must be known before a league schedule can be drawn up.

Down to Earth:

Algerian Ivies Prove Useful for Masking Unsighlly Fences, Providing Background

(Terry Lee, Recorder garden columnist, is out of the city this week. In her absence, the following article, prepared by the Bedding Plant Advisory board, is substituted.—Ed.)

Few things can detract more from the appearance of a garden than a weather-beaten fence. Few things present a more pleasing vista than a garden backdropped by a fence covered with honeysuckle or lush green Algerian ivy.

The ivy family is particularly suited for this purpose and is well recommended for fence covering. The Algerian ivies, both the green and the variegated forms with their large glossy leaves and fast lush growth, make rapid cover and show well for years on end.

For smaller leaved texture the green Hahn's ivy is often used but it tends to coarsen in full sun exposure. Planted so that it is sheltered, the growth of Hahn's ivy is also lush and green.

For a slower growth and with some need for training until established, there are many fine leaved ivies, such as Needle-Point, Pin Oak, Merion Beauty and Maple Queen in the green form and Jubilee and Glacier in the variegated form that will present a filagree pattern on a fence background.

Because of the small leaf size and the comparativeiy slow growth of the last group mentioned they should not be used if a dense full growth of leaves is desired within a short period of time.

Ivy geranium is also useful for fence covering. With this plant, leaves and flower are both points of interest but more work is required as the plants must be trained and tied and then pruned at regular intervals. Another plant that yields both leaf texture and an abundance of flowers is the Hall's Honeysuckle.

RAPID GROWING

This rapid growing plant will make one of the fastest fence covers available and will bloom through most of the year.

The flower is a cream yellow and is sweet scented.

Many of the annual and perennials grown in nursery flats are useful as temporary screens for an unsightly fence.

Plants to use with this purpose in mind would include cosmos, delphinium, hollyhock, margarites, African marigolds, tithonia and zinnias.

The main point is that any fence whether new or old, whether tidy or in a state of disrepair will show to better advantage with a good selection of plant material growing along it or in conjunction with it.

GARDEN CALENDAR WEEK OF JULY 15

Spray grapes when they are the size of small marbles, and spray peach, plum and apple trees again to insure a good harvest. To keep plants healthy, don't pick beans when the foliage is wet.

* * *

Cut fresh flowers for arrangements in the cool of the evening, and soak in deep water overnight. Annuals will bloom longer and perennials a second time if flowers are picked to prevent seed formation.

* * *

Most insects are blinded by red and yellow, so outside lights near a patio should be these colors. Insects are attracted by blue and green, and lights of these colors can be used for a trap.

* * *

If your begonias are getting tall, support them with bamboo stakes.

The stems are so brittle even a strong wind will snap them.

When they begin to flower, give them a light feeding of fish emulsion.

Geraniums do not need much water in the summer, or they will be all foliage. I keep them planted near native shrubs for just this reason. It is nice to have a corner you can neglect.

MUSICIANS PERFORM IN SUMMER ORCHESTRA

Keep Right On Studying:

Menlo Park Area's Young Musicians Keep Fine Edge on Accomplishment in Summer

Recreation comes in all forms, and not the least popular type of summer activity, these days, is the Menlo Park recreation department-sponsored youth orchestra and string orchestra which meet at 1 p.m. every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at Encinal school.

There are 55 youngsters in the youth orchestra and in the string orchestra, all experienced in the art of making music. They've all attended classes before joining this one.

Members of the classes—the latter under the direction of Miss Lucie Landen, who during the school years is instrumental music instructor for the Menlo Park Elementary School District—come from all over. Some are from Redwood City and some are from Atherton, though most come from Menlo Park itself.

All members of the groups have one year of orchestral experience behind them.

As one might guess, the stringed instruments are the most popular. The youth orchestra's violin section has 16 members; there are six violists, four cellists, and one bass viol.

The rest of the orchestra's instruments include an interesting enough distribution: one saxophone ,three flutes, five clarinets, one French horn and six trumpets.

The classes are held to an hour's length, so youngsters aren't left out of swimming or the other summertime activities.

They'll continue until the end of August, when the young musicians will start getting ready to return to school.

Western C of C Managers Tour Sunset Magazine

Chamber of Commerce managers from the nine western states and Alaska yesterday afternoon toured the offices of Sunset magazine. The C. of C. executives are currently attending the United States Chamber of Commerce Western Institute at Stanford university. The program will continue through Saturday.

Mrs. Kellum Named M-A Vice Principal

Mrs. Eleanor Kellum, formerly dean of girls, has been appointed vice principal of Menlo-Atherton high school and James Coffis, frosh-soph coach, adviser and part-time boys' physical education instructor at Carlmont high school, has been appointed dean of boys.

The new appointments were announced last week. With them, the Sequoia high school district board of trustee has filled all vacancies occurring here with the elevation of former Principal S. S. Mayo to the post of assistant superintendent for the district, and the promotion of former Vice Principal and Dean of Boys Nicholas Nugent to the principalship.

Mayo, who is a resident of Redwood City, has been a member of the Sequoia High School District staff for the past 27 years, during which he has served for three years at Menlo-Atherton and as principal of Sequoia high school night school for 13 years.

In announcing his new appointment, Dr. Clyde Ogden, the district's superintendent, said that Mayo will specialize in the business administrative phases of district operation.

Long a Part of Community:

'Stone Cellar,' Long Noted Menlo Park Eatery, Reopens After Remodelling Job

The Stone Cellar, one of Menlo Park's oldest restaurants, this week officially reopens its doors after a complete, top-to-bottom remodelling which climaxes a generation of growth that has seen it change from a soft-drink stand to one of the south Peninsula's best-known eating places.

Actually, the Stone Cellar had its beginnings in the '20's when the owner of a private dwelling on the site, one Angelo Simonini, began serving meals there. The old Simonini home provided the core for the building, and it remains even today—though largely as the pattern around which the rest of the modified structure has been erected during the last few months by Contractor M. C. Ingraham of Menlo Park.

It was about 1929 that a separate structure, clearly identifying the Stone Cellar as a commercial establishment, came into being. It was a "nipa-type" but in front of the old home, fronting on the then-two-lane El Camino Real.

STONE MOVES IN

Business languished for the soft-drink stand, however, and Simonini moved on, so that in 1930, when Earl Stone, his wife and daughter moved to the area, they were able to acquire tenancy of the main house.

Stone, a man of vision, added a lean-to onto the residence and in it dispensed normal "short-order" restaurant fare.

Area residents of that era recall that one of Stone's specialties was turkey sandwiches, which attracted a large clientele.

Soon, the volume of business being done in the restaurant attached to the main structure far exceeded that being done in the nipa hut, and the latter was torn down.

At about the same time, a few months before the end of prohibition, Stone built an even larger restaurant and kitchen, and had the old residence jacked up to provide space underneath for a cellar room.

GETS A NAME

With this move, it became in actuality, "Stone's Cellar"—a name later changed to "Stone Cellar" by subsequent owners.

Persons who lived here can recall, too ,that April night in 1933 when, for the first time in more than 13 years, a "legal" case of beer was delivered to this area.

It was delivered, of course, to the Stone Cellar and, Atherton Police Chief Leroy Hubbard recalls, thirsty citizens stayed up until 1 a. m. to welcome it.

But aside from ending prohibition, the delivery of that case of beer signalled the opening of the bar at the cellar.

Stone, however, was more of a restauranteur than a bar operator, and a few months later, in 1934, he sold the business to Louis Paolino. Paolino operated the restaurant and bar for 19 years. Under his management, the establishment became known throughout the Peninsula area.

McMahon and his wife, Rita, reside at 1035 Oakland avenue with their two daughters, Judy, 4, and Frances, 6.

Zirilli and his wife, Rose, have two children, Don Jr., 8, and Nancy, 2. They reside in San Carlos.

Owner of the property throughout the years has been Arthur Frank.

SOLD LAST YEAR

The remodeled restaurant now is under active management and direction of Edward J. Durkin, who with his associates took over operation of the landmark last October.

Active for many years in San Francisco civic affairs, Durkin moved to Menlo Park a year ago.

He and his wife, Margaret, now reside at 1105 Hillview drive with their three children, Michael, 16, and Sheila, 15, both of whom attend Menlo-Atherton High School, and Kathleen, 12, a student at Hillview School.

Associated with Durkin in the enterprise are Frank McMahon and Don Zirilli.

During Wilder Years:

'Stone Cellar' Predecessor Once Scene Of Double Shooting, Recorder Files Show

Menlo Park hasn't always been a quiet, residential town. The Stone Cellar, 1906 El Camino Real, one of its best-known restaurants, newly opened after a long remodelling, however, has played a part in the community's life, sometimes for better, sometimes for worse.

One time, in September of 1927, it was the scene of a double shooting.

Killed were Undersheriff P. J. Larrecou, brother of Menlo Park's former postmaster, Barney Larrecou, and one Gaines Miller, an individual characterized by the Recorder of September 30, 1927, as "a bandit."

According to old-timers in the community, the fireworks climaxed a period of several months during which both of the victims said that they were "looking for each other."

The Recorder, in recounting how they died, gave no reason for this. But it was assumed that in the "roaring '20's" many isolated structures could at least be suspected of being a "blind pig," the devious enterprises of the prohibition years clashed head-on with law enforcement, leading to the gunplay.

The Recorder reported:

"Larrecou died with practically not a chance to defend himself. With traffic officer Elgin Kreiss of Redwood City, Larrecou had gone to the eating establishment (then operated by Angelo Simonini—ed.) on the highway near Atherton at about 9 p. m.

"The two had finished eating and were in the act of leaving shortly after 10 p. m. when there was a knock at the front door. The proprietor opened the door and as he did so two men stepped in. Each carried a gun and each had a handerkerchief over his face.

"The last of the pair was Gaines Miller. He pressed a gun against Simonini and backed him into a corner. Miller then rushed to the back of the restaurant, leaving his companion at the door.

CONFRONTS OFFICERS

"Entering the kitchen, Miller came face to face with Larrecou and Kreiss.

"Knocking Kreiss' crutches from beneath him (the narrative doesn't explain, previously, that the Redwood City officer was injured) which caused him to partially fall to the floor, the bandit sprung at Larrecou and before the latter could make a move pressed his pistol against the officer's abdomen and shot him.

"Larrecou, though in agony, pulled his gun from his pocket and fired three times, each shot finding a mark in Miller's body and with Miller returning the fire, shot for shot.

"Larrecou dropped to the floor dead and the bandit, mortally wounded, started for the door but a bullet from the gun of Officer Kreiss pierced his brain and he dropped.

"The other bandit made his escape amid a hail of bullets from the gun of Simonini."

The Recorder tells of the funeral which followed. One of the largest ever held in the county, it attracted a cortege of 150 automobiles.

OBITUARIES

Harold Shelton

Harold S. Shelton, a resident of the Menlo Park area for the past 38 years, was buried in his home city of Santa Rosa Monday, following his death at Palo Alto hospital Saturday.

Shelton, who was 77, was taken to the hospital after being discovered on the ground behind an apartment house he has been adding to, at his property at 949 Woodland avenue. Police theorized that he fell from the second story of the structure, while attempting to place rafters over the addition, and struck his head on a cement step, 20 feet below.

Death was attributed to a basal skull fracture.

Shelton is survived by a son, Russell, of Menlo Park; a sister, Mrs. Charles Bundschu of Sausalito, and two brothers, Rodney D. Shelton of Seattle and Alfred Shelton of Rochester, New York.

Friends wishing to honor Shelton's memory are asked to contribute to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Local funeral arrangements were made by Roller and Hapgood of Palo Alto.

S. J. Varnhagen

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Siegfried J. Varnhagen, San Francisco dress manufacturer and a resident of Atherton for the past eight years, who died suddenly late Monday after swimming in his private pool at his home, 177 Tuscaloosa avenue.

Varnhagen apparently suffered a stroke while swimming. He was pulled from the water by his wife, Helen and a maid. Police and a doctor were called, and Varnhagen revived briefly but expired before he could be taken to Palo Alto hospital.

The manufacturer was 67, and wsa a native of Germany. He came to San Francisco in 1908, and in 1918 became head of the G. W. Reynolds company, which he has headed since.

He was a member of Fidelity lodge, F & A M, of San Francisco.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by two children, Peter Varnhagen of San Mateo and Stephen Varnhagen of San Francisco and two grandchildren, Patricia and Karen Varnhagen.

Funeral services were conducted at Home of Peace cemetery in Colma. Funeral arrangements were handled by Roller and Hapgood in Palo Alto.

Rev. T. F. Power

The Rev. Thomas F. Power, SS, professor of science for 23 years at St. Patrick's seminary here, was buried Saturday. He died last Thursday at the seminary, after a long illness.

Reverend Power is survived by a sister, Mrs. M. E. Boylan of Allston, Mass.

Requiem Mass for the repose of Reverend Power's soul was celebrated Saturday at St. Mary's cathedral in San Francisco.

Locally, funeral arrangements were handled by the Tinney funeral home of Palo Alto.

Herbert E. Hall

Funeral services were held Monday for Herbert E. Hall, 1041 Cambridge avenue, who was found dead at his home last Thursday.

Hall, who was 50, had been a resident of Menlo Park for the past 10 years. He was a native of San Francisco. A coroner's examination would be held to determine the exact cause of death, it was stated, although it was presumed due to natural causes.

A native of San Francisco, Hall is survived by his mother, Mrs. Louise Starr of that city and a brother, Clare Hall of Larkspur. His wife, Sophie, preceded him in death.

He was a member of Mt. Davidson lodge 481, F & AM, of San Francisco, and the Palo Alto Commandery.

A civil engineer, Hall was inurned from the N. Gray and company mortuary in San Francisco. Local funeral arrangements were by the Johnston and Tinney Colonial chapel here.

Mrs. Mabel Weaver

Private funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon for Mrs. Mabel Wren Weaver who died Monday at her home, 418 Crest drive, Redwood City, following a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Weaver, the wife of Menlo Park attorney Landis N. Weaver, had made her home in Redwood City for the past seven years. A native of Madera, she had resided in the Peninsula area for the past 15 years.

Mrs. Weaver was a member of the Menlo Park Business and Professional Women's club and the Palo Alto Mills club.

Besides her husband, she is survived by sisters, Mrs. Eve Wren Story of Oakland and Miss Marie Wren of Inglewood. She is also survived by a brother, Lawrence J. Wren of Inglewood.

The Rev. Floyd W. Barr, assistait pastor at Menlo Park Presbyterian church, officiated at the services, which were conducted from the Johnston and Tinney Colonial chapel here.

Interment was private.

Mrs. Lucille Jackson

Mrs. Lucille Joiner Jackson, 74 a resident of the bay area for the past 10 years, passed away on Monday at a San Mateo hospital. She had made her final home with a daughter, Miss La Berne Jackson, at 1181 Noel drive.

Mrs. Jackson was a native of Texas. Besides her daughter, she is survived by a brother, Joseph Joiner of Pacific Grove.

Funeral services were read Wednesday from Johnston and Tinney Colonial chapel, 650 Live Oak avenue, by Mrs. Eulah B. Reid. Interment was at Piedmont avenue cemetery, Piedmont.

Ricky Davidson Gets Appointment To Annapolis

RICKY DAVIDSON

Ricky Reynolds Davidson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Davidson of 1 O'Dell place, Atherton, left Sunday for Annapolis naval academy to which he has been appointed by Senator William F. Knowland.

Young Davidson, who was graduated from Menlo-Atherton high school in 1953, had high scholastic honors noted on his high school diploma with gold and silver seals, was a member of the Gold Key honor society and the California Scholarship federation and commissioner of boys' athletics during his senior year.

He was active in football and wrestling, receiving one letter for the former sport and two for participation in the latter, in which he placed second in Peninsula Athleic League competition.

He was also an active member of Menlo Park Presbyterian church youth groups, the Junior Red Cross and the "Block M-A" society at Menlo-Atherton.

Since his high school graduation he has been a student at San Jose State college, where he has been studying aeronautical engineering; he was also a member of the California national guard 159th infantry battalion, company E, of San Jose. He was interfraternity council representative for Sigma Nu fraternity on the SJS campus.

The new Annapolis appointee was born in Alameda, and attended Central school here before going to Sequoia high school and later to Menlo-Atherton.

He has one brother, Barry, who will be a sophomore at Menlo-Atherton next fall.

His father is senior captain pilot with United Air Lines, and is based in South San Francisco with flights to New York.

The family has resided in Atherton since 1941, except for a wartime absence of four years.

Brian Mokler Gets Pomona Honors

CLAREMONT (Special)—Brian V. Mokler of Atherton will enter Pomona college here in the fall with "honors at entrance," highest honor bestowed by the college on entering students, President E. Wilson Lyon announces.

Mokler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Mokler, 132 Tuscaloosa avenue, Atherton, is a 1954 graduate of Menlo-Atherton high school.

He is one of 29 students to receive this honor in a class of more than 300. The honor is awarded on the basis of high school academic records and scores in college entrance examination tests.

At Menlo-Atherton high school, Mokler was a member of the California Scholarship federation, won the Degree of Distinction of the National Forensic league, won the Harvard book prize, won first prize in the Menlo Park Realty board essay contest in his senior year, was class valedictorian, won first prize in the school's United Nations Essay contest in his junior year, and was commissioner of administrative activities during 1953-54.

He was a member of the varsity track team, played the violin in the senior orchestra, and was active in debating and the National Forensics league. He is an Eagle Scout.

Six Area Scouts Off to Camp

Six Scouts from the Live Oak District of the San Mateo county Boy Scout council will depart for the final session at Camp Pomponio Saturday, it was announced this week by the council.

The six include Quentin Queen of Troop 104; Urmas Kaldveer, Troop 107; Seth Armstron, Troop 166; Charles Hutchins, Troop 222 and Elroy Hoffman and Hugh F. Smith, Troop 333.

Next week's camping session is the concluding one for this season at Pomponio, and for the remainder of the summer the facility will be the scene of special projects.

The Live Oak District, from which the six Scouts named above will attend, includes Eeast Palo Alto, Menlo Park, Atherton and Woodside.

County Recorder Handles 7611 Writs

A total of 7611 papers were handled by her office during June, County Recorder Ruth Kirste reports, as compared with 6536 during the same period last year.

But while the general run of paper work was up, the number of marriages recorded was down: there were 192 such actions recorded last month, and 205 during te same month last year.

RECOMMEND CONTINUED OKAY OF LAND PLAN

Menlo Park planning commission this week recommended continuance of the city council's approval of a tentative subdivision map of the M. Belotti property, which lies between Bay Laurel drive and Oak avenue. The tentative map has been on file for more than a year; no final map has yet been filed.

Gift From Day Campers and a Friend:

Brownies Plant New Trees at Oak Knoll School During Friday Afternoon Dedication Ceremony

Oak Knoll school now boasts three beautiful white birch trees, a joint gift from Brownies using the grounds for day camp and from Herbert Frank, landscape architect who donated plans for the school's beautification.

This is the first year that Oak Knoll has been used in summer time to house the activities of Brownie Scouts; members of the four troops represented there (Oak Knoll Troops 358 and 137; Fremont Troop 110 and Garfield Troop 325) wanted to say "thank you" in their own way for use of the property, so they took up a collection for trees—their purchase was then matched by Mr. Frank.

Dedication ceremonies for the three birches were held Friday afternoon with the four troops and their leaders in attendance, as well as Mrs. James Johnson, director, and Mrs. C. D. Yaggy and Mrs. Robert Eldridge, assistant directors.

The 43 Brownies attend Oak Knoll day camp Tuesday through Friday; mothers of the participants aid in the program, each supervising an activity "up her alley." According to Mrs. Johnson, some of the mothers sketch, others do ceramic work—the program is kept flexible to utilize the mothers' talents.

Every day a member of the Storytellers guild comes to regale the youngsters, and the guild has been so pleased with the result that they've promised to do the same next year.

Otherwise, the Brownies learn camping by concentration on hikes, one of the most recent ones being to Stanford stables, where the girls were shown around and got acquainted with horses.

Along with their thanks for the use of the school, both Brownies and mothers want Principal Richard Johnson to know they appreciate his cooperation, too, in making their camping experience such a pleasant one.

Beauties To Model For AWVS

Men, attention!

Beauties in bathing suits (and street and evening wear, too) will take over Rickey's Studio inn next Friday evening, July 23, when the Palo Alto unit AWVS presents its thirtieth monthly fashion show.

The 8 p.m. affair promises to offer a "new twist" to style shows — every model to cross the dais is a 1954 beauty contest winner. You and your friends are all invited to attend; there is no admission and reservations are open.

Models will include Pat Thomas, recent Miss Menlo-Atherton candidate for Dream Girl of the County Fiesta; Vicki Haldeman of Menlo Park, second place winner in the Miss San Francisco contest, who recently retired from her teaching position at Fremont school to take up modelling and singing.

Also, Kay Ryder, Miss Sunnyvale (a Miss California contestant); Joanne Vosti of Mountain View, runner -up for Miss San Francisco; Betty Anderson, Miss San Mateo county (another entrant for Miss California).

Claudette McIlrath, Miss Millbrae (contestant for Dream Girl); Jill Gion, Miss San Jose and second placer for Miss California; Joanne Brown, Miss San Carlos and Patty Robinson McPherson of Atherton; undisputed peninsula swim queen and exhibition natatoress.

Mrs. Vincent Klevesahl of Los Altos, assisted by Mrs. Harold W. Starr, Mrs. Burke Corbet, Mrs. Edward Hazen, Mrs. Harold Santos and Mrs. Roberts S. Jones, is chairing the show.

Head hostess is Mrs. June Hunchar of Redwood City, who will be aided by Mrs. Paul Gill, Mrs. John L. Gossett and Mrs. Edward Burke.

Mrs. Burt C. Kendall of Menlo Park will preside over this microphone.

Date Is September 25:

Holy Trinity Parishioners Unfold First Plans for Annual Festival

Plans are already afoot for the traditional affair looked forward to by many local residents, the annual festival sponsored by Holy Trinity Episcopal church on the parish grounds.

Date for the fundraiser is Saturday, September 25, and those working on it under Dr. D. Allan Treat's direction include committees from the vestry, choir, Altar guild, Woman's auxiliary, Young Adults, Young People's fellowship and the church school.

Dick Williams To Wed Grace V'der Mehden

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Von der Mehden of Gridley have announced the engagement of their daughter Grace to Richard Harrison Williams, only son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dewey Williams of Menlo Park.

News of the couple's engagement was first revealed to a group of friends at a luncheon held last week at the Allied Arts guild.

Grace is a graduate of Lowell high school in San Francisco and of Stanford university, where she also received her master's degree in education last month. Since January, the bride-elect has been clinic supervisor of the Stanford Speech and Hearing clinic.

Grace is the granddaughter of Ottilie von der Mehden and the late Carl von der Mehden of Menlo Park and is the cousin of Roland von der Mehden, Garfield school teacher also from Menlo.

Dick, an alumnus of Stanford is presently completing work for his doctorate in education. He is affiliated with Phi Delta Kappa fraternity.

Although no definite wedding date has been set, the couple is planning a late summer marriage.

Mothers Club Is Started

Formation of a new Mothers' club of St. Francis of Assisi church took place last Friday at the home of Mrs. Felix Rancatore, 2490 Gonzaga avenue.

Over coffee and cake the young women decided to meet the third Wednesday of each month and to make every endeavor to raise funds to get under way the proposed parochial school slated for construction in the local church's master plan for expansion. Because it is fun to get together, they will make their meetings social in nature, it was decided.

Couple Are Planning Winter Wedding:

Engagement of Sue Kuechler to Jim Harris Announced Sunday at 'Welcome Home' Fete

SUE KUECHLER

At an outdoor party held Sunday afternoon at the Atherton home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Kuechler Jr., Susan Stewart Kuechler and James McDonald Harris announced their engagement and plans for a winter wedding.

The party was supposedly arranged partly in honor of Sue's birthday, which was Tuesday, and partly to celebrate her parents' homecoming from a recent trip to Europe. Guests were informed of the betrothal by two entwined hearts made of pink carnations and bearing the young couple's names.

The bride-elect, who is now in her junior year at Stanford and a resident of Stillman house on campus, has two sisters, Sally Foster Kuechler and Nancy Kuechler, and a brother, Henry Kuechler III.

Both Sue and Sally made their debut in December of 1952 at the Debutante Cotillion, where the future newlyweds first met. Jim and Sue have been a "steady couple" for a year and a half now.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert DeWitt Harris of San Francisco, the bridegroom-elect is a senior at Stanford, where he is affiliated with Sigma Nu fraternity. He is studying in the field of electrical engineering and is to enter the air force next spring upon graduation.

Sue was graduated from Castilleja school in Palo Alto, while Jim is an alumnus of Piedmont high school.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kuechler of Cloverdale and Ashby O. Stewart and the late Mrs. Stewart of Atherton. Grandparents of the future benedict are Mr. and Mrs. James R. McDonald of San Francisco and Mrs. William F. Harris and the late Mr. Harris of Oakland.

Close friends of both Sue and her parents had been invited to the engagement party.

Betrothal Announced Saturday:

Marilyn Green of Atherton To Become Mrs. Eugene Lunn

A family dinner party held Saturday evening at the Tuscaloosa avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Melvin Green of Atherton served to announce the engagement of the Greens' only daughter, Marilyn Jane, to Eugene James Lunn of San Francisco and Arcata.

The bridegroom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Holman Lunn of San Francisco, the grandson of Mrs. Victoria McCurrie and the brother of Mrs. Martin Wagner, the latter two also from San Francisco.

Marilyn, whose interest lies in the field of music, was graduated from Burlingame higt school and the College of San Mateo.

An alumnus of Lowell high school in San Francisco, Gene continued his studies also at the College of San Mateo where he majored in the field of pre-med. He is a member of the Olympic club and has a business in the Northern California town of Arcata.

The couple have set August as the month for their wedding.

Next Storytelling Hour at Library Will Feature Bits of Indian Lore

Indian stories will be feature of the day both next Tuesday, July 2, and the following Tuesday, July 27, at the Menlo Park library's story telling hour scheduled from 11 a. m. to 11:30 a. m.

Mrs. George Bradner of Menlo Park, well known here for her interest in Indian lore, will be the tale weaver.

Stories are related in the patio of the Menlo Park branch library regularly at 11 a. m. Tuesday mornings, and the sessions will be continued throughout the summer by members of the Menlo Park workshop of the Story guild.

Folk tales, fairy tales and adventure stories are all included, and children of all ages are invited to come and lend an ear.

Story tellers who will follow Mrs. Bradner this summer are Mrs. Harry Wilmer, Mrs. Donald Sachs and Miss Joan Rucker. Tales have been told already to an enthusiastic group of youngsters by Mrs. Donald Selby and Mrs. Robert Houston.

HOWARD BARRS LEAVE THIS WEEK FOR ALTADENA

Menlo Park is this week bidding goodbye sadly to one of its favorite families—the Howard Barrs, who are going to make their new home at 1754 Meadowbrook road in Altadena. Mr. Barr will be associated with Consolidated Western steel with headquarters in Maywood.

The Barrs, who have been active in church, community, Scouting and P-TA work, include Pat, who finished her junior year at Menlo-Atherton, Roger, who completed his freshman year there, Cathy, 12, Mike, 7, and Eileen, 5.

Pat is currently attending Girl Scout counselor-in-training camp at Sonora, while Cathy is registered in the second session at Camp Woodhaven and plans to fly south at the end of her stay there. Pat's new school down south will be John Muir high school, while Cathy and Roger will attend junior high school and Eileen and Mike, elementary school.

The Barrs want all their friends here in Menlo Park to know that their new home will be open to them whenever they're on a trip to Southern California. The family's move terminates almost three years' residence in our town.

LOCALITES PLAN TO ATTEND CWBC CONCLAVE

The Credit Women's Breakfast clubs of North America, 16th annual conference this weekend is due to attract several localites, among them Hazel Green, Recorder office manager and vice president of the Palo Alto CWBC; Irene Melskov, Central Electric, club director and probably Thelma Eberhardt, Toland, McKune and Boyle, club parliamentarian.

The conclave opens Saturday and will continue until next Thursday at the Fairmont hotel in San Francisco.

Aside from business, talks and workshops, the conference will feature an informal 7 p. m. get-together in the Nob Hill room Saturday; a 7 p. m. reception at the Drake on Sunday; luncheon and 8 p. m. "Barbary Coast" night on Monday; 7 a. m. "kaffee klatch," 5 p. m. tour of Muir Woods Tuesday and 7 p. m. annual banquet and dance in the Gold Ballroom on Thursday.

'Flea Market' Opens Monday At Allied Arts

Now that the lovely indolent summer days have taken hold in Menlo Park, it's once again "Flea Market" time at the Allied Arts guild. Next Monday, July 19, will find tables set in the Guild patio outside the children's shop.

For those Christmas shoppers who like to bargain-hunt in July, the Flea Market will offer a wide selection ranging from ash trays to jewelled kidskin jackets; wrought iron and redwood furniture to toy fire engines.

Hundreds of items taken from the Guild shops, all priced to suit any purse, will be on display.

The sale — marking its sixth year now—is designed after the famed Paris Flea Market, the city's "bargain basement." The annual sale is a regular project of the Woodside-Atherton junior auxiliary, which operates the Allied Arts guild year-round to support the Stanford convalescent home.

Tables will be manned by Guild members all next week, Monday through Saturday, from 10 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.

Joseph Allains to Host Barbecue Party Tonight

The first in a series of summer patio parties to raise proceeds for the Holy Trinity Episcopal church parish house building fund will be given this evening by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Allain of Atherton.

The affair, a garden barbecue party, will take place at the Allains' 215 Atherton avenue home.

Betrothal Told Last Weekend:

Mickey Singer, Wilma Bloom Foresee A Spring Altar Date

Mr. and Mrs. Milton L. Bloom of Palo Alto announced the engagement of their daughter, Wilma, to Mervyn L. (Mickey) Singer, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Singer of Menlo Park, at a family dinner last weekend.

The couple are planning a spring wedding.

Wilma, who has one sister, Raelene, is a graduate of Palo Alto high school and a former student at San Jose State college. She is currently employed in Palo Alto.

Mickey is a graduate of Menlo-Atherton high school where he served as president of the first graduating class. He is now a junior at San Jose State college majoring in industrial technology.

As Summer Scouting Nears Mid-Mark:

Day Camp 'Why' & 'Wherefor' Explained by Mrs. W. Ridgway

Right now, the Menlo-Atherton area is fairly buzzing with Brownies in day camp, some of them experiencing their first bit of camping and some more advanced. In charge of the groups of girls are leaders and overall directors, all of whom have gone through a training period.

Last year, Mrs. Whitman Ridgway addressed on group of trainees, explaining the aims and organization of day camps, particulary those in this locale. The substance of her talk went like this:

Today our general topic will concern the theory of day camping and the camp itself, and also a few particulars such as square knots, bulletin boards and desserts.

Tomorrow we will meet at Menlo-Atherton. Mrs. Forsythe will give us directions before wo go home. The general discussion will center around units and your job from the time you notify your Brownies through the closing day of camp. A few more particulars of crafts, knots and songs will come your way.

THIRD SESSION

Our third session will be held separately. At this time you will get a final grooming. The unit staff will have been set up, and the unit sites will be selected. The general subject of the individual Brownie and her probable problems will be discussed.

Now to the theoretical part of today. What is a day camp?

A day camp is just what the name implies—a meeting place for daily camping where the Brownies come in the morning, stay for lunch and leave in the afternoon.

Sites for day camps may vary from a city lot bounded by tall buildings to rough country. Each must have a central meeting place large enough for the entire camp to hold opening and closing ceremonies and any camp playlets.

CAMP SIZE

The size of the camp is determined by several factors, among them the number of locations for unit groups (about 15-20 girls to a unit), available cooking areas (governed by local laws and conditions) and the number of latrines available.

Financially, the aim is the same in all Scout camping.

The girls' money is actually used by her; it is spent on her transportation, food (in the form of milk and cookouts) and perishable supplies of crafts and camping. Money needed for permanent equipment—rent of site lands and the like—is supplied by headquarters.

There are graduations of camping within the two or three years of day camping.

HIKES

Hikes are more limited in the younger groups and there is even a recognized difference in types of outdoor cooking. For instance, stick cooking is not considered safe for second graders, and they are pretty well limited to simple desserts and one-pot meals.

The advanced Brownie has progressed to cooking with aluminum foil, over the coals and in pits.

Part of this has nothing to do with safety—it's just that the young Brownie is too impatient to eat to fool with roasting in a fire reduced to coals or baking in a reflector oven.

In Menlo Park there are three distinct Brownie day camp groups.

FIRST YEAR

The first year campers go to Roger Reynolds or Menlo-Atherton high school. Their activities are pretty limited to the camp itself.

Second year campers go to Scout Haven in Burgess park. The camp is limited, but cookouts are more complicated, and there is the added facility of the swimming pool. The hikes are more extensive—one of the favorites last year was a hobo-hike to Roger Reynolds.

The fourth grade Brownie goes to Huddart, a camping area behind

NATIVITY GUILD HOLDS ANNUAL CARD PARTY

Yesterday afternoon the Nativity guild of the Church of the Nativity sponsored its second annual bridge and canasta dessert to benefit the school building fund. The party was given in the gardens of the Walter J. Healy home in Atherton.

Last year the same affair was held in the same beautiful setting, tables placed in the patio and gardens which surround the swimming pool. Increased reservations this year seem to assure the party as an annual event.

Members of the committee included Mrs. Evert B. Larson, chairman, Mrs. Andrew Fiolek, Mrs. K. W. Shattuck, Mrs. Peter P. Bolich, Mrs. David Delaney, Mrs. Paul Zinder and Mrs. Robert McKown.

Once school has opened, similar affairs are to continue in order to increase the building fund, as well as to keep up mantenance.

Eislers Vacation At Philmont Camp

The C. K. Eislers are again cherishing the memory of weeks spent at Philmont Scout camp in New Mexico, where they and their two daughters, Martha Louise and Janet Kathryn, stayed at the main ranch house.

While there, the local family—residents of 299 Oakhurst place—were guests of George A. Bullock. The main ranch, points out the Eislers, houses the more than 100 employees needed to keep up the camp's 127,000 acres.

Philmont is a national, rather than state camp and attracts young men from all over the Untited States. In a setting rife with the romance of the Old West, campers can enjoy riding, fishing, hiking and many other activities.

One of the highlights of their stay, according to the Eislers, was the Fourth of July parade (in which the two girls rode) and rodeo. Other interesting features of their visit were a tour through Kit Carson museum and the pueblos and a trip to Eagle Nest lake.

ON HONEYMOON EAST

A NEW HOME IN FREDERICKSBURG awaits Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ford Masters (Geraldine Ellen Phelps), who became man and wife a week ago Monday at St. Pius Catholic church. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gayl Albert Phelps; the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Master of San Carlos.

BRUSHING UP on their dance positions for Saturday's Country Dance and Supper are Stanford Club members (left to right) Mrs. Charles Burkett, Howard McCully, Mrs. Charles Tuffli and Robert Dean-Turner, party co-chairman. The club's party will be held at the ranch of Dr. and Mrs. Russel V. Lee, and activities will include dancing—both folk and ballroom—ham dinner and singing around a campfire. Tickets, which alumni may reserve by calling Mrs. A. Michael Stewart at DA 3-2720, include an evening of free beer.

Around Our Town:

Hal Browning Home & Its California Influence

INTERIOR of the Browning's Menlo Park home.

By MAGGIE MOORE

It is the belief of Mrs. Hal Browning that a home reflects the personality of the family that lives in it. We are certain that everyone would agree that the Brownings must be a grand family to know, if judged on this basis.

From the moment you see the long low lines of their home in its spacious setting of oaks and pine at 1 Parkwood drive, off of Ringwood avenue, you can feel it.

A walk through the functional rustic home would quickly show that here is a family that enjoys the conveniences of the latest in home design without sacrificing the appreciation of lovely old pieces of furniture.

Breaking it all down, in journeys around our town we often come across a home which is not only an expression of California living but also of our own community.

ACTIVITIES

The Brownings are well known in Menlo Park through their community activities. They have participated in plays with the Menlo Players' Guild and are members of the newly organized "Friends of the Menlo Park Library." Mrs. Browning is a member of the American association of University women and Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

You enter this home through Dutch doors. (Incidentally, these are used to advantage throughout the house.) Planned not only for family living, you realize immediately that the home is ideal for entertaining, too. The large living room sets the tone for the whole house.

Mrs. Browning, who ran her own interior decorating business before her marriage, has aptly put her talents to use in her new (two years old) home. As she explained, having come from the midwest, the Brownings love the "openness" which surrounds their home. They are used to the wide sweeps of unfenced land.

CALIFORNIA STYLE

At the same time, she declared that the family loves the California style of home which carries the open feeling inside. She described briefly the contrast with the midwestern homes which, although lovely in themselves, lack this quality.

The living room, especially, gives one the feeling of "being outside when you're in," that Mrs. Browning likes. The large picture windows have been left undraped so as not to detract from the vistas outside.

In keeping with this, the patio can be lighted in the evening so that instead of a "black" mirror-like window area, the garden may be seen. Another point—the patio, instead of being a great expanse of paved area all in one place, has has been extended all around the house, allowing for enjoyment of the entire garden and giving each patio activity a spot of its own.

MAIN COLORS

Throughout the home are carried the predominating colors, tan, redwood (most often seen in the use of the wood itself) and a blue green. This last has been used in the grass-cloth wall covering.

Floors are random-width planking, complete with pegs, keeping the rustic tone and enhancing what Mrs. Browning feels is an early-American type of background. Beamed ceilings are another feature.

This background has proven suitable as a setting for the period oil paintings and accessories. One painting Mrs. Browning acquired in England, a copy of the portrait of Mrs. Sydney for whom Sydney college in Cambridge was named. Another was painted during the time of Gainsborough.

RAISED HEARTH

The raised hearth fireplace features an antique Portuguese stirrup used as a planter for philodendron. The stirrup was brought back from a trip to South America and seemed just suited for the wide expanse of fireplace which it accents. An antique bellows also hangs nearby.

Lamps were made from French oil lamps and Chinese hatstands in the living room, where the piano and the children's flutes indicate the family's musical interests.

The entrance to this lovely room, which we feel personifies the entire house, shows good use of interior shutters in decoration. The Brownings decided that they didn't want the opaque glass wall suggested for privacy by the architect, especially when the out of doors was so beautiful.

Almost a second living room is the family room where the children can enjoy TV when mother and dad want to do other things. The collection of phonograph records is enjoyed in this room, which somehow has an air of a study about it.

GAME TABLE

An antique pine game table doubles as a telephone desk. Books and prints are featured as well as the second fireplace. It is here that the Brownings are able to enjoy a winter barbecue simply by installing the rotating spit from their summer barbecue.

Doors open from the family room to the patio and from the kitchen adjacent. For summer patio dining a pass-through to the outside from the kitchen facilitates things.

The Browning children are happy with their own rooms—and why not? Billy, 10, has his electric train tracks mounted on a board that folds safely up on the wall when not in use, and there is plenty of room for all of his "boy collections" of toys and "things."

Susan, 12 years old, has every little girl's dream room.

WINDOW WALL

It features a full window wall, opening on to a small, completely enclosed, private patio all her own. Although it is small, Susan's patio has its own oak tree with ferns and pansies and cyclamen nestling underneath.

Wonderful for the girl-to-girl sessions that are a part of the teen years ahead—wonderful right now for the Brownings to enjoy a casual and late Sunday morning breakfast in—which they do. Added attraction—the small bird's nest in a hanging plant basket.

The master bedroom is the only room with draperies — these are more for privacy, really, than for any other reason, although the chintz pattern of oak leaves and wild flowers is an attractive touch. Here, too, is the beautiful period secretary-desk, an English antique piece.

Fortunate in their setting—the Brownings enjoy the visits—even a sharing of their residence—with families of quail, squirrels and birds of various kinds. This has given them still another interest—and the shrine of St. Francis has its honored place in the patio.

In an ideal location for all of the lovely shade plants as well, the setting of this home includes hydrangeas, fuschias, azaleas and begonias, to name a few. (Albert Wilson, Menlo's garden author, made them a gardening plan). The flowers give the splashes of color against the wide lawns dappled with shadow patterns made by the trees.

More About:

AREA DAY CAMPS . . . .

Woodside where the camp winds up with an "overnight."

In most cases, Brownie day camp is a prerequisite to Girl Scout camping.

THE STANDARD

The standard for day camping is to do that which is best done out-of-doors. Crafts as such are considered better done during the rest of the year.

However, a great deal may be observed in nature through the medium of crafts — camp notebooks, leaf prints (this may involve a collecting hike), bug houses and the like. Songs are good both indoors and out; there is a maxim that a singing camp is a happy one, so encourage them.

If a Brownie is sitting under a three happily watching the wind ruffle the leaves, don't feel she must be galvanized into a group activity. If the unit veers off the planned routine, see if you can redirect your plans to fit their interest.

NO 'BABY SITTER'

A day camp is not just a mature "baby-sitting agency": its interest is becoming acquainted with nature, and its very set-up teaches the democratic principles of everyone's working, making decisions and abiding by the rule of the majority. It is a training camp.

The central committee consists of the director, her assistant, and the camp nurse.

Each day there is a meeting of the unit leaders in the center of the camp; this is usually during the rest period after lunch, with the assistant leader staying at the unit site.

Ideas at this time are interchanged, problems discussed, new skills and songs learned.

Two girls from each unit are selected by their fellow Brownies to attend a meeting held each day in the center of the camp to bring the Brownie viewpoint to the whole group and to take back to the units the majority decisions.

By the time day camp begins, the director's organizational problems are pretty well solved. She then is a coordinator and someone who will be available for help. That is her camp job and that is why she must keep herself free to go from unit to unit and be available to aid any way she can, as well as to direct the actual all-camp gatherings.

The above as explained by Mrs. Ridgway is a part of the training which goes into making day camping (now in full swing) the success it is.

Foreign Engineers To Dine at Hillers'

A group of engineers from many countries — Belgium, Denmark, France, Germany, The Netherlands, Portugal and the United Kingdom—will be entertained at luncheon tomorrow at the Stanley Hiller home in Atherton.

The engineers are in this country studying the air and water pollution problem under the auspices of the Foreign Operations administration, Washington, D. C. Also present at luncheon will be engineers from Hiller Helicopter.

Assisting Mrs. Hiller with lunch preperations will be Mrs. Charles Freeborn, Mrs. Robert McBride, Mrs. Chester Dennis and Mrs. Donegan.

DEADLINE for registration in Session II of Camp Yomah is 5 p. m. Monday; names may be entered with the Peninsula Jewish community center, DI 3-9778.

'Hayride in July' For Club 'Teenagers

It was a "hayride in July" Tuesday night for the 'teenage members of the Menlo Circus club, who were special guests aboard a hay-filled truck which took them to the club's "shack" at Searsville.

Th adults also took advantage of the near-full moon to travel via horse or car on this, the Circus club's first Moonlight Ride of the season, arranged by Judge Louis Goodman, assisted by Winston C. Black.

At the shack, a barbecued steak supper was served around 8 p. m. and was followed by dancing to a two-piece band—the dancing also marked a "first" for the club, since it was this year's innovation.

Among those participating in the "ride" were the Frederick Shermans, Paul H. Joostens, John Roos', Ralph H. Bollards and Mrs. William Bancroft.

AMONG localites taking in opening night of "The King and I" were the Frank Hoopers, Jim Zellerbachs, Ance Davies with John Traina, the George Concannons and Becky Connable; some were entertained beforehand at the city apartment of Bill and Sue Logan.

FATHER Michael Fitzsimon of St. Pius Catholic church is now on vacation in Hawaii; he was to have arrived there by plane last Thursday.

310 LINFIELD drive is the new address for Mrs. Rex Harlow.

Peninsulites Plan Sunday Weiner Roast

Plans are complete for the Peninsulites', young adult group of the Peninsula Jewish center, weiner roast which will be held Sunday at Seacliff beach five miles south of Santa Cruz.

Anyone in this area who is planning to attend (with own lunch) may contact Sonia Lamb, 670 Live Oak avenue, at DA 5-7501, for transportation arrangements and further information.

Little House:

Annual Picnic Slated Today

More than 150 senior citizens from the San Francisco center at Aquatic park have accepted the invitation from Little House members to join in the latters' annual picnic today at Adobe Creek lodge.

The visitors will first inspect the Little House headquarters at 800 Middle avenue, leaving by car at 11 a.m. for the picnic grounds. Each member is to bring along his own lunch; coffeee and dessert will be served.

At 2 p. m. Saturday afternoon Little House will have its first checkers session, with expert Carl Barthel offering to take on all comers and play simultaneously against the first 20 who take him up.

Mr. Barthel will give individual instruction after the exhibition, and welcomes beginners as well as those who want to "brush up." Players bound for other places may participate in the sessions, too, by joining the Little House mail club—it's possible to play from 6 to 12 games by postcard.

Other activities at the senior center include:

TODAY — Discussion group meeting cancelled because of the all-day picnic and program, the latter featuring music by Jeanette Lockwood and Wayne Anton.

Rainbow Parents' Club Seats New Officers

At a meeting held last week newly-elected officers of the Rainbow Mothers' and Dads' club of Menlo Park assumed their posts. The installation gathering was held at the Roble avenue home of the James Walkers, with Mrs. Evelyn Joslin and Mrs. Laurence Schminkey serving as co-hostesses.

Hugo E. Endrigo, new president, conducted the business and appointed committee chairmen who included Mrs. Earl Parks, telephone; Mrs. Endrigo, publicity; Mr. and Mrs. Schminkey and John Clarke, membership; Mrs. Leonard Sise, Mrs. George Utley and Mr. Walker, ways and means.

Other members of the new officers corps are Mrs. Joslin, vice president; Mrs. Clarke, secretary and Mrs. Walker, treasurer.

INFORMATION on reservations for box seats at the Stanford Convalescent home horse show August 14 may be had by calling Mrs. Roy Robinette at DA 2-3419.

JUNIOR Journal club meets Monday and Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. at the Peninsula Jewish community center.

A NEW MENLOITE is Mrs. Don McCaleb of 450 Sherwood way.

Menlo-Atherton Newcomers Announce July Meetings

Members of the Menlo-Atherton Newcomers' club are varying their activities this summer from sewing to golfing. Section meetings for July are scheduled as follows:

The new sewing group will meet next Tuesday at 10 a. m. with their leader, Mrs. E. K. Kelly, apartment 4, 831 Roble avenue. Mrs. Kelly hopes that members attending will come armed with "sewing bee" equipment—mending, knitting and needle-and-thread-work.

Plans for the group's future will be discussed at that time; anyone planning to attend may call DA 5-4282.

Getting into full swing for teetime is another new section, the golfers. Members interested in joining this group are asked to contact Mrs. Howard Kemper at DA 5-9813.

The garden section's recent field trips are coming in for a repeat performance next Wednesday, July 20, with a trip to the Santa Cruz begonia gardens.

Green thumb members who want to go are asked to call Mrs. Harry Kimball at DA 2-8810 before next Tuesday, July 20. Mrs. Kimball will arrange transportation for those who cannot drive.

* * *

Afternoon and evening bridge groups have already held their sessions for the month—the afternoon "trumpers" gathering yesterday with Mrs. C. W. Curry and the evening players assembling Tuesday at Mrs. B. W. Ansell's home.

BRIDAL PARTY FOR RITA YOUNG, MILES BENEDICT

Rita Young of Atherton, who is being honored this month with a whirl of pre-nuptial parties, has chosen as matron of honor for the July 31 noon nuptials at the Church of the Nativity, her sister, Mrs. Charles B. Sherrill (Mary Young) of Phoenix, Arizona.

Bridesmaids will be Mrs. Patricia Tanham, another sister from San Francisco, Mrs. William McElhinney of Berkeley, Jean Shipkey of Los Altos and Patricia O'Farrell of San Francisco.

The bridegroom-elect, Miles K. Benedict of Caldwell, New Jersey, will have his father, Frederick W. Moore, as best man, while ushers will be Robert Funk of Santa Monica, Charles Sherrill of Phoenix, William McElhinney and Warren Poole of Palo Alto.

The bride's niece and nephew, Alexis and Jerry Tanham, will act as flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

EPA Legion Invites Dancers to Decorate

Everyone's invited to help "redo" the East Palo Alto American Legion hall, and have fun doing it.

All that is required, according to Ben Engelbrecht, is that each couple or individual who would like to see the hall "prettied up" attend a special dance Saturday night at the hall. Proceeds from the dance will be used by the Legion members and their auxiliary to redecorate the building.

The dance will be held from 9 until 1. The usual charge will prevail and music will be provided by the Legionnaires.

Assisting Engelbrecht are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence O'Neal, Mr. and Mrs. George Porter, Mrs. Glenn Palmer, Mrs. Ivy Russell and Mr. and Mrs. Eckles Ashworth.

MARY Hutson will again be seen at her usual post on Santa Cruz avenue, having written "finis" to her vacation.

Merrymans Expect Houseguest Next Week

Expected next week at the John H. Merrymans' Edgewood lane home is Mrs. Merryman's mother, Mrs. Shelby Harbison from Springfield, Illinois, who will be accompanied by her homecoming grandson, Sammy.

Last weekend the Merrymans enjoyed a three-day camping trip at Yosemite with their youngest son, Bruce, and his classmate, Dicky Dwiggins. The eldest youngster, Leonard, is currently attending Menlo summer school.

'Teenage Open Houses At Peninsula Center

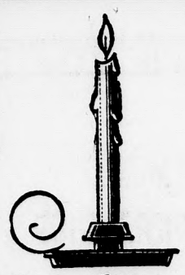

An invitation to all young people, 14 to 18 years of age, has been issued by Mrs. Harold Shanzer, chairman of the teenage advisory committee, and Jack Cohen, chairman of the Peninsula Jewish community center's 'teenage group, to attend open house.

The open houses will be given each Thursday evening from 7:30 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. at the center in Burlingame. On the bill of fare will be informal dancing, games and other activities.

GROUP tennis lessons at the Circus club started Tuesday and will continue for four weeks; Bob Renker and Jim Cornish are taking class registrations.

SEVIER avenue resident who is a newcomer to her neighborhood is Mrs. Rita Saunders.

MR. and Mrs. Pasco B. Carter Jr. were recent guests at Del Monte lodge, Pebble Beach.

As Nuptials Near Dolly Giannotti Is Honored at Several Showers

By PROXY

With her marriage to Frank M. Lico only two days away, Dolly Giannotti has become the focal point for a series of pre-nuptial parties.

Most recent of the showers was a personal one given for the future matron Monday evening by her sister, Jackie Giannotti, and Mrs. James Nelan. Joan Derry, who will serve as bridesmaid during the 11 a.m. Nuptial Mass at Church of the Nativity, was hostess at a lingerie shower held Saturday afternoon at the Ed Derry home.

The latter party, which included luncheon, was highlighted by the decorations—each table was covered with pink satin and centered with a bouquet of pink carnations; at Dolly's table the centerpiece was made from gladioli and tiny umbrellas. Larger parasols filled with gifts were hung from the trees bordering the Derry's patio.

Other parties were bride-elect were a dinner June 22 hosted by the bridegroom's family and a luncheon given July 6 by Dolly's aunts, Lillian Viscenti and Ad Caperelli.

* * * *

The C. B. Stones of 1130 Cloud avenue have as their current houseguests Mrs. Stone's sister and niece, Mrs. Irvin L. Crawford and Kathy, and another sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Jordon.

The foursome motored from their homes in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania through Mexico and Los Angeles. They plan to stay here for a fortnight taking in the area's sights.

* * * *

A "coke" party aboard the Lurline on July 21 will signal the departure of Joan and Carol Stickeny, Yvonne Layne and Kathryn Klays to the Islands, where they will stay for three weeks at the Royal Hawaiian.

Carol and Joan, both Menlo-Atherton students, are daughters of the Adrian Stickneys of Atherton; another M-AHS-er, Yvonne's parents are the Roy Laynes of Menlo Park; and Kathryn is the daughter of the Ed Klays of Alameda.

* * * *

Other Notes—On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martin Jr. (Ellen Chamberlain) are holding what's now an annual barn dance in the Selah Chamberlain barn. On Tuesday, the Phillip Fitz-Geralds have planned a dinner dance at their Walsh road home.

In past tense, the Dick Brookes, who came to Woodside from their ranch in the San Joaquin valley last weekend, held a luncheon at the family home of the John Brookes Jr. for the Oliver Dibbles III and the Edward L. Eyres Jr.

Circus Club Calendar

Coming up Sunday at the Menlo Circus club is a family dinner, while highlighting next week will be the Thursday evening Italian stop on the International Tour of Food.

Saturday and Sunday, July 24 and 25, marks the men's and women's doubles tennis tournament for club members only; and on Tuesday, August 3, there will be another of the monthly fashion show luncheons.

MUELLERS BACK

The Robert F. Muellers returned to Menlo Park last week after spending several months in Cincinnati, Ohio. The family in now engaged in refurbishing their house at 148 Dunsmuir way.

FIRST in a series of youth summer swim parties is slated for 3 p. m. Saturday at the Peninsula Jewish community center; further information may be had by calling DI 3-9778.

HEARTY CONGRATULATIONS AND OUR BEST WISHES FOR SUCCESS

CONGRATULATIONS ON THE OPENING OF YOUR NEW RESTAURANT

NOW OPEN.... the new STONE CELLAR

LUNCHEONS & DINNERS SERVED DAILY

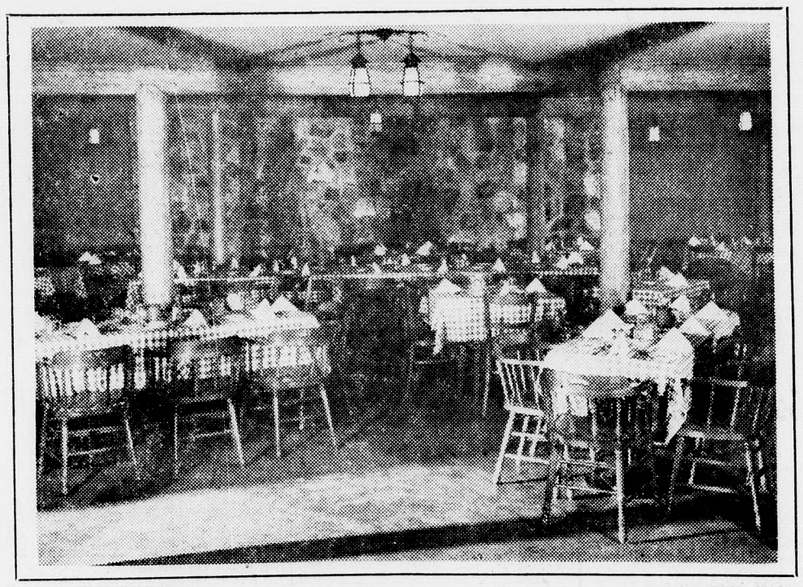

Glad to be open again — greeting old friends and making new ones.

In the center is Ed Durkin, genial host and general manager of "The Stone Cellar" with Don Zirilli and Frank McMahon, who are in charge of the Cocktail Lounge. Don and Frank are fast gaining fame as expert mixologists and greeters who never forget a name.

The New Stone Cellar

For ever 25 years "The Stone Cellar" has been a landmark on the Peninsula. Old grads of Stanford and Menlo College like to reminisce of the happy hours spent in the old "Cellar." The architects, and builder Mark Ingraham, have achieved the extraordinary by presenting a beautiful new building and still retaining the theme and illusion of "The Stone Cellar." The cool green Cellar floor, with antique log beams—the great stone fireplace—the stone bar and lounge — all combine to retain all the charm and atmosphere so well remembered by the old timers and —still it's luxuriously new.

Top quality food and service has been traditional with "The Stone Cellar." Here in the Cellar Dining Room, candlelight and colored tablecloths, comfortable captains chairs, give the old world atmosphere for enjoying dining that "MUST BE the BEST." Adjacent to it is the "49er Room" . . . a colorful private party room for large or small luncheon or dinner groups—seats up to 80 persons. For Reservations . . . DA 3-4022.

"The Stone Cellar" Lounge offers an amazing surprise for old timers and newcomers. It's just old brick and stone—nothing fancy —no chrome — no mirrors — rugged redwood tables — but there is no other quite like it. Men and women agree — it must be seen to be appreciated. Drinks are expertly prepared the way YOU like them.

The modern "Menlo Room" is a new addition to "The Stone Cellar." For those who like modern decor, luxurious leather booths—lots of light . . . the SAME delicious food, of course.

Some Features from Our Menu . . .

Democrats' Box Supper Scheduled for Saturday

Joining in on vacation "just re-laxin'" Saturday afternoon and evening will be the members of the Menlo-Atherton Democratic club, who are holding a box supper-swim-dance party at the Lindenwood home of the Joseph Eichlers.

Plunging in the pool (or just watching) is slated to start at 4 p. m. and those who want to participate are asked to call Mrs. Marvin Chodorow at DA 2-7109 for reservations.

Women attending should bring box suppers—possibly decorated —which will be bought by the men for a flat rate. The purchaser and the creator of the box supper, respectively, will dine together.

On Saturday:

St. Francis Guild Will Serve 'Meal-in-One' Benefit Dinner

"Do you feel that it's just too hot to cook?" members of the St. Francis Guild are asking this week. If the answer is "yes," they have the solution for you, they say.

They are inviting everyone to stop in at the Royal Super Market, 635 Donohoe street, this Saturday, July 17 and buy a hot or cold home-cooked meal.

According to Mrs. Richard Bays, chairman, a tempting variety of foods will be offered. Included in the menu will be spaghetti, raviolis, tamale pie, potato salad and macaroni salad, cakes, pies and home-made rolls.

The following St. Francis church Guild members will cook or bake their specialties: Mrs. Thomas Payne, Mrs. Joseph Reginato, Mrs. Roland Fitzgerald, Mrs. Leslie Brecht, Mrs. Alfred Lindahn, Mrs. John McCarty, Mrs. Ann Thomas, Mrs. Carl Anderson, Mrs. John Barbour, Mrs. Harold Rieben, Mrs. Rudolph Jorgenson, Mrs. Mary helen De Beauclair.

Mrs. Joseph Steck, Mrs. Richard Bays, Mrs. Wells Albade, Mrs. Louis Consani, Mrs. Angelo Cinquini Mrs. Fred Gardner, Mrs. Paul Norton, Mrs. Gladys Courter, Mrs. Tonnesen.

Mrs. Carl Clark, Mrs. Linasin Mrs. Lucy Soldano, Mrs. Heler Johns, Mrs. Eva Clayton, Mrs. Norman Mont-Eton, Mrs. Rose Gonzales, Mrs. Dell Guarino.

Proceeds from the sale will be given to the building fund for the new church on Bay road. Groundbreaking for the edifice was held last Sunday.

Meeting Today To Polish Plans For Fall Tea

Mrs. Herbert Schick, head of the San Mateo county unit of Pro America, is holding a board meeting and luncheon today at her Hillsborough home to map final plans for the annual Constitution Day tea, which will be held this year on Tuesday, September 21.

Guest speaker for the event, scheduled to start at 2 p.m., will be the noted author, lecturer and attorney from Southbend, Indiana, Dean Clarence Manion. His topic will concern "The Constitution Is Your Business."

Site for the annual tea and style show will be the San Mateo Hillsborough home of Mrs. Augustus Taylor Jr. Models, many from this area, who will be announced later, will display new fashions from Nelley Gaffney while Mrs. George Ross describes them over the loud speaker system.

Mrs. James Walz has been named as general chairman of the tea.

Commercial Food Course At College of San Mateo

For those interested in a two-year course on commercial food preparation, the College of San Mateo has scheduled one beginning in September. The classes are open to persons over 18 years of age or who are enrolled in a general program at the college.

The laboratory course will meet for three hours daily giving five units of credit; work will deal with a knowledge of and practice in menu planning, purchasing, preparation and serving of foods for restaurants and cafeterias.

Taken in conjunction with required courses—English, hygiene, political science, business skills subjects, business law, accounting and human relations—it leads to an associate of arts degree.

Anyone interested in studying for entrance to food trades may confer with the course instructor, Mrs. Thelma Clyde, after July 15 at the college.

Play Center:

OFFERS TALK

Audience participation will be welcomed next Wednesday, July 21, by Dr. John Ivan, who will discuss and answer questions regarding the "Characteristics of the pre-school child" for members and guests of the Menlo Play center.

The talk, to which everyone is cordially invited, will be given at 8 p. m. in Menlo-Atherton high school.

Dr. Ivan, originally from Canada, received degrees from both the University of Toronto and the University of Minnesota. Currently on the teaching staff of Jefferson high school in San Mateo, Dr. Ivan received his PhD from Stanford, writing his theses on "The social development of children."

The speaker has also been active in YMCA work and formerly conducted radio forums dealing with 'teenage problems.

Sponsor of Wednesday's program, the Menlo Play center, is a cooperative nursery school covering the Menlo Park area.

Onoratos Visit Family; Tour Through Southwest

A trip to Cambridge, Minnesota, then to Yellowstone and through the Southwest was on the Frank Onoratos' recent vacation itinerary. The family unpacked their car Thursday night after three weeks away from home.

In Minnesota the Onoratos—who included children Pat, Stewart and Frank Jr.—visited Mrs. Onorato's parents, the E. Olsons, following which they nosed the car back to Yellowstone, which Mrs. Onorato considered one of the sightseeing highlights of the trip.

The latter with the possible exception of the family's exit from the national park, which Mrs. Onorato said took in two hours of driving along tortuous road with no turn-backs, just enough room for two cars and an exceptionally high altitude. This was the northeast road . . . so future Yellowstone visitors beware!

Three District Officers At CCPT Board Meet

Mrs. Harry Caplan of Menlo Park, chairman of the state policy committee for the California Congress of Parents and Teachers and junior past president for the district, has been in Los Angeles with Mrs. G. J. Sirex and Mrs. George Elliott for the July meeting of the CCPT board of managers.

On the agenda currently being considered are problems of migratory workers in California; participation in the $100 million bond issue to continue state building loans to impoverished school districts and the constitutional amendment on reorganization of liquor control, the latter two slated for inclusion on the November ballot.

Also being discussed is the long-term study of comic books; progress reports issued from time to time are to serve as guides to the P-TA action program through local association efforts.

What's Doing Among Menlo Park Teen-Agers

Jo Booth DA 3-1909
1220 Sevier Avenue, Menlo Park

Annapolis now possesses one new member from Atherton! Signed, sealed, and delivered by Senator Knowland, Ricky Davidson arrived there Monday morning, all prepared for his four year stay!

And, as a sendoff, a group of kids met at his house to discuss his future plans and their past activities. Chatting were Berkeley Johnston, Ray Palusci, Tom Fitch, Tom Schmidt, Willene O'Connor, Bob Golobic, Dick Jorgenson, Georgia Lee Gayer.

Connie Stelmach, Audrey Rhodes, Don McLane, Glenda Kincheloe, Ron Collingham, Barbara Long, Mardy Keyes, Dave Easley, Bob Conlon, Bobbie Edmunds and Page Godbe.

As a kind of finale to the evening, Mrs. Davidson brought in a huge sheet cake with "Admiral Ricky" in the center. At each of the four corners was written M-A, San Jose State, Sigma Nu (his fraternity) and Annapolis.

We wish you the best of luck during your stay, Ricky!

* * *

Some people loafed over the Fourth of July, some people went on trips and some went to the rodeo, where they spotted some M-A kids making off with honors in the talent show!

Winston Schepps and Jeanne Rich performed with their record pantomime of "Side by Side" and Jerry Hines added his guitar to the music.

In the finals, Joyce LaCodo and Dick Parks wound up with $10, and so did Verjean Hawes. Unfortunately, Verjean's record was broken before her act, so she was accompanied by a thirteen-piece orchestra, the group that finally took first place.

Another band that didn't do so badly was a five piece combo made up of two boys from Paly and Gerald Bird, Doug Delaney and Jim Stewart. They walked off with the $35 second prize!

And some puppets, aided by Jerry Juhl, Fleming Heegaard and Lee Donaghey, left the fairgrounds ten dollars richer! (Incidentally, that can be considered a plug. They's fer hire, according to Jerry and will perform at anything, even for a dog fight, if they get paid!)

Sanny Loofbourow's family's home near Skyline was the scene of a very pleasant luncheon recently. The girls ate hamburgers (prepared by Mr. Loofbourow), then took off on a hike.

The ten included Melinda Percy, Alice Lum, Mary Jane Heinrich, Carla Jones, Carol Fogle, Sue Stolp, Jackie Pratt, Priscilla Pinto, Glenda Spear.

Herewith we bring you a few items about some people that you perhaps didn't expect to hear about until September rolls around—the teachers!

Mrs. Spence has flown back to Pennsylvania with her husband to his home town, which he hasn't seen in 30 years . . .

Miss Hanlon is driving through the New England states and back east, and . . .

Mr. Lugonja is chaperoning 37 high school students in Europe! They plan to visit 15 or 16 countries, and will be back in early September!

San Gregorio Beach was the happy hunting ground for two gatherings of kids, though not at the same time.

The early part of the week, you could have seen Dee Dales, Sylvia Staub, Sheila Calkins and Carol Tuft up there playing ball, wading, etc. Carol reports that 1) Dee stepped on a very unpleasant and slimy jelly fish, and 2) they got tangled up with some uneligible Boy Scouts, but the counselors were cute!

Sheila, by the way, is from Vancouver, B. C. She is staying with her aunt for two months. This is the farthest south she has ever been, though she stopped in Seattle on her way down.

Number Two group included Fran Feiten, Gail Davis, Kitsie Nelson, Dick Mazik and Phil Austin, who spent the day several 24 hourses (we mean a couple of days) later.

The afternoon passed in wading and getting good and sandy. Around dinnertime, they built a huge fire, tossed some potatoes in to roast, split up a loaf of French bread and slapped some cheese spread on it. Ahhh, this gypsy life!

* * *

Anybody who goes up to Tahoe this summer is sure to spot many good friends, acquaintances or future acquaintances. Some of the kids there now, or there recently include . . .

Georgia Huston, who is there for most of the summer . . .

Gary Allen and Bill Douglas, who are spending some time there . . .

Ginnie Crocker, whose parents have a motel and is one of the fortunate ones up all summer . . .

And Mikel Ann Edelen and Carole Ullmann, who are taking life easy for a week, accompanied by Mrs. Ullmann and Carole's sister!

We have another piece of news from Northwestern where, if you read this column as regularly as it comes out, you realize that Angela Bowen is spending a goodly part of her summer. She has been elected one of the three girls who directs the house she is living in, and the girl she went up with — Mimi Wolf—was also chosen. Angela was very pleased about it, and says she likes it very much!

Spotted at Adobe Creek Lodge recently, enjoying the food and swimming were Maxine Leider, Molly Boyd, Cathy Treagle and Clarise Watkins.

Up in San Francisco catching a little culture were Margaret Roehr, Jim Mack, Cindy Klink and Pierce McPherson at a performance of "Porgy and Bess." Also in the city were Carol Stelmach and Hank Corson, who enjoyed a dinner at Fishermen's Wharf after seeing Cinerama.

Rainbow Girls Arrange Exchange Meet Tonight

At their meeting tonight members of the Menlo Park Rainbow Girls' assembly will be hostesses to their sister members from Redwood City. The meeting, slated for 7:30 p.m. in the Menlo Park fraternal building, will be followed by a refreshment hour.

Future plans for the local Rainbow Girls include a "Suntan Special" trip to Santa Cruz for the day with Redwood City Rainbow Girls, Redwood City and San Carlos DeMolay members; there will also be a bazaar sponsored by the Menlo assembly near the end of August.

The new worthy advisor, Diane Eggleston, is a June graduate from Menlo-Atherton high school. Next fall she plans to enter the College of San Mateo and "major" in the field of home economics (she already keeps house and cooks).

Area ORT Members Plan Sunday Party

Fun and food at their annual outdoor barbecue dinner is in store Sunday for members and husbands of the Southern Peninsula chapter, Women's American ORT. The affair, scheduled to convene at 4 p.m., will be held at the Palo Alto home of the Irving Dicksteins, 2798 South court.

Mrs. Sidney Weil of Menlo Park, president, has announced that the proceeds of this requested "encore" party will benefit the Guardianship phase of ORT's program, assisting in medical and recreational facilities for students attending ORT schools.

Reservations may be made by calling either Mrs. Weil at DA 5-2343 or Mrs. Herman Lubfin at EM 6-5059. Others assisting Mrs. Weil on party plans are Mrs. Harold Shapiro, Mrs. Sam Zuckerman, Mrs. Ben Levy and Mrs. Jack Oscheroff.

"SAFARI to Africa" will be the theme for Menlo Country club's annual cruise dinner dance on August 7. Mrs Dick Wright is in charge of arrangements.

THE D. W. Keaheys of Sherman avenue arrived home earlier this week from a five-day camping trip.

MRS. John Wickett currently has houseguests from Guatemala, whom she plans to honor with Becky Connable at a party this evening.

NATIVE Daughters will hold their installation, open to the public, next Tuesday at 8 p. m. in Central school auditorium.

For Autumn Series:

Youth Symphony Practice Opened Monday; Tryouts End August 15

Starting Monday, the California Youth symphony started its summer rehearsal schedule in Burlingame recreation hall. The rehearsals, directed by Aaron Sten, are held from 1 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. and at present there are a few openings in all sections for student musicians.

Youth symphony requirements are based on junior high school through college age; auditioners must be taking private lessons and have the approval of the instructor to audition for the orchestra and must have ability to read orchestrations.

Audition music will be furnished, but tryoutees are requested to bring their own instrument and music stand if they have them.

Program rehearsals for the fall concert series are progressing rapidly, and new members will not be able to audition for placement after August 15. Further information may be had in this area by calling DA 2-3881.

Ryders Entertain

Mr. and Mrs. Robert MacGowan, with their young daughter, Mary Elizabeth, were houseguests last week of the Oliver Ryders.

The MacGowans were en route from Hong Kong, where he had served as vice-consul, to Washington, D. C. To celebrate their guests' stay, the Olivers held a barbecue get-together on Sunday evening.

Democratic Women Make Future Plans

Plans for a reception to introduce Democratic candidates and a late summer house tour to raise campaign funds were discussed yesterday when members of the county Democratic Women's club gathered for lunch at Mrs. Walter Truce's home in Belmont.

Mrs. Paul Cook of Menlo Park, new president, conducted her first meeting; other officers taking over were Mrs. Roy Seagraves, Burlingame, vice president; Mrs. E. A. Brix, San Carlos, secretary; and Mrs. Harold Wattenburg, Redwood City, treasurer.

M-A Bridge Winners

High pointers in Monday afternoon's Menlo-Atherton bridge club session were Mrs. Roy Robinette and Mrs. Kenneth Dawson.

Runners-up were Mrs. Ray Osborn and Mrs. Jean Carlock, Mrs. Jess Sammon and Mrs. Laura Wilkins, Mrs. Roy Patten and Mrs. A. F. Kelley.

Millers Experience Tahoe Earthquake

The William F. Millers experienced the earthquake at Lake Tahoe on their recent vacation up there. As reported by Mrs. Miller the quake rattled doors and shifted beds—in fact, she added, she hasn't felt anything like in in all her years of being a Californian.

While the Millers, Mr. and Mrs., were wakened by nature's proceedings, the boys—Dick and Bill Miller and Bill's guest John Wild — slept through the whole thing. Mrs. Miller said she didn't know if it was coincidence, but the weather seemed windier after the temblor.

The family returned home (Olive avenue) this weekend from their 10-day rest

Visit in Washington

Among other things observed on their recent trip, the George F. Melharts saw Bonneville dam in Washington, complete with a fish counter.

The fish counter, explains Mrs. Melhart, is not something over which cod or sole is sold, but a woman stationed at the dam to count the number of variety of fishes which travel through (this is done by a "switchboard" affair and buttons).

The Menlo Park family's main trip concerned visits with relatives in several Washington towns. Accompanying their parents were Louise Melhart, 8, and June Melhart, 20 months. June, notes Mrs. Melhart, really began to sit up and take notice on their way home.
